The 1937 REVEILLE

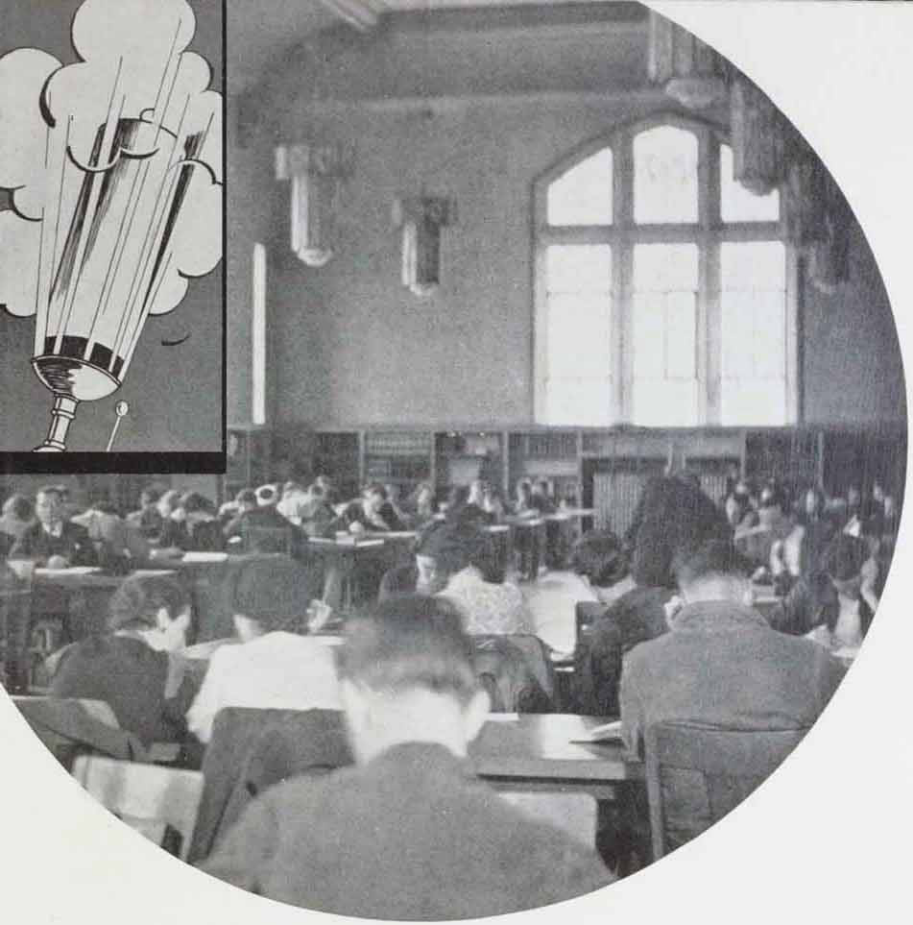

FORT HAYS KANSAS STATE COLLEGE

a gentleman of the old school:
Professor James R. Start's association with the students at Fort Hays is one of kindly interest and consideration for their problems and points of view — in class work, in campus activities, and in social life. Not only is his work as instructor intelligent and well done, but also he displays a rare and cultured sense of humor and, above all, a kindly courtesy. This entire book is dedicated to James Richard Start, a gentleman of the old school who is up-to-date and well-informed — the Alexander Woollcott of Fort Hays.

WORK and PLAY

One of the distinctions of Fort Hays as a school of work is the powerhouse whistle, which serves as a glorified campus clock and even carries the time of day to the whole town of Hays. Symbol of work, it regulates the classes from morning till night. Above is the study hall of the library, which is usually a busy place at any time from seven-thirty in the morning until nine-thirty at night.

Several of the Little Theatre group spent hours of their's and their director's time posing for an interpretation of work at the right. In the picture are Harold Graves, Martha Markwell, John Page, Izella Jackson, Ruby Ellen Malmberg, Vernon Waeldin, Derrill Pratt, Bonnie Zimmerman, Scotty Philip, Marylee Harvey. Orvis Grout is the director.

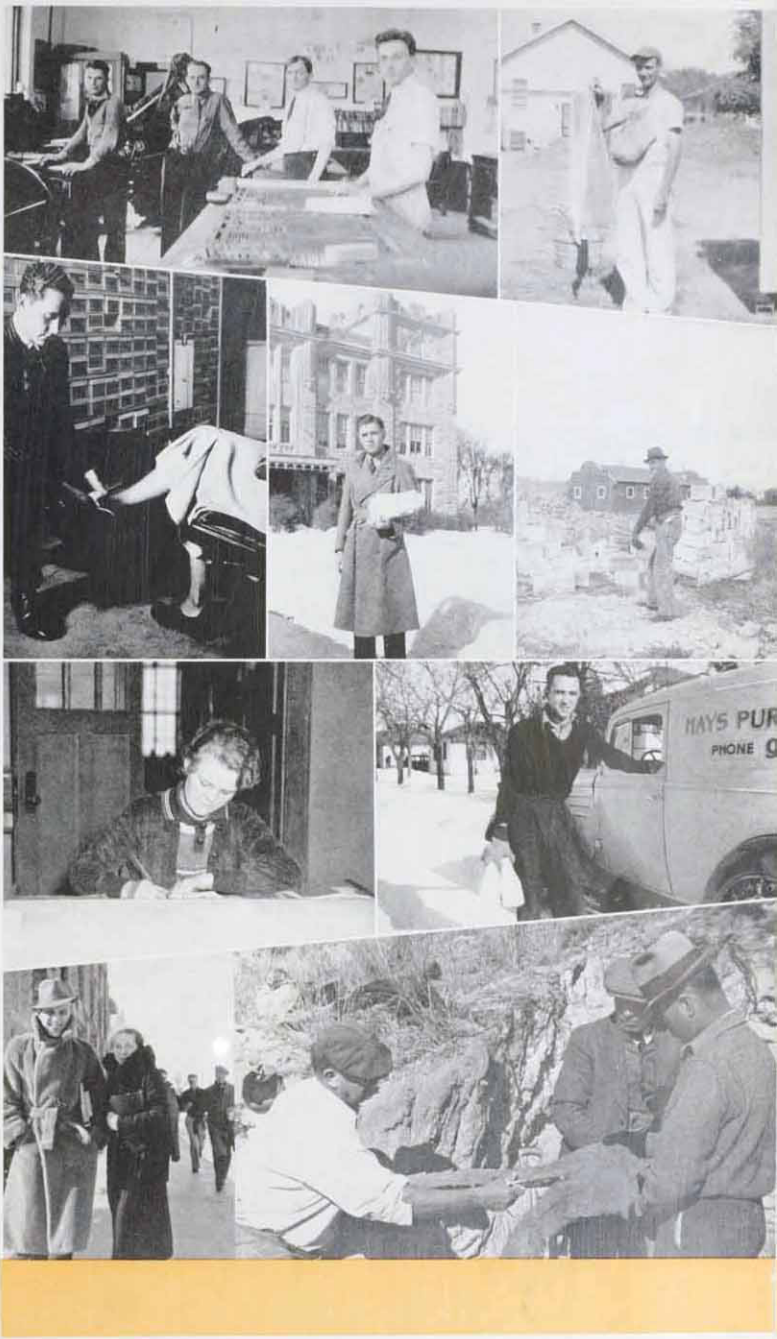

Worker's Wonderland

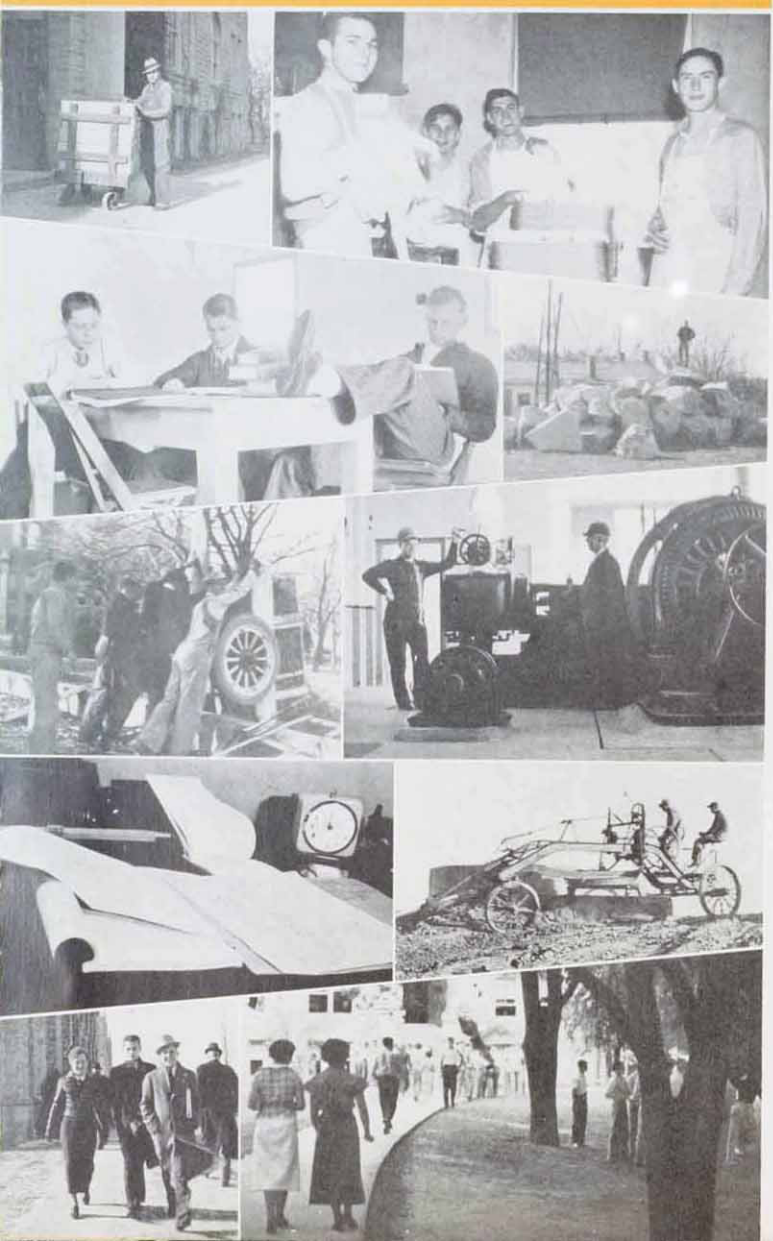

¶ Should Alice walk through the looking glass onto the campus of Fort Hays, she would find a wonderland of youth at work . . . and play. She would be amazed at their quiet industry, their zest and enjoyment. Lest Alice should break the mirror, the Reveille presents a kaleidoscope of the varied activities of campus coeds and Carls.

To the west, Lewis Field men relax with study . . . knocking out the yearbook . . . more power . . . student at bandsaw in Industrial building . . . survey for work . . . a Barton class . . . candid camera . . . behind milady's face . . . even the faculty works . . . every day on the campus.

On this page, George is loafing on the job . . . mammy! . . . connoisseur of pretty ankles . . . "Jim" Hinkle . . . rockpile . . . her other job . . . Milkman Rhoades . . . Let's go to Mack's . . . paleontologists.

LEWIS FIELD

More work . . . in the Cody Commons kitchen . . . relax the body, exert the mind . . . stadium in the raw . . . autumn leaves are sometimes a nuisance . . . behind the limelight . . . gotta get up and go to work . . . new roads to learning . . . Gwendolene, George and Tom . . . ten minutes.

¶ One hundred twenty-three men are living at Lewis Field. It is an informal community, yet, looked on from an internal aspect, it is not a brotherhood. Aside from the friendships afforded through association it represents only a group of individuals with the interests of the college in command. (Informal activities, and buildings of Lewis Field are pictured at the right).

When the Lewis Field barracks were instituted in 1934 through the influence of Dr. C. E. Rarick, Dr. W. D. Morland and others, it was intended that they should provide a comfortable residence for the greatest possible number of college men at a minimum of expense. In qualifying for admittance three conditions were required of the Lewis Field applicants: financial need, character, and scholarship. These demands made it possible to eliminate less desirable students and has resulted in a generally superior group.

Still, however lax or stringent the precaution toward character and good behavior, no set of rules has excluded the one important factor that has made the barracks project a success and one that will be instrumental in its expansion. That element is the general spirit and good will manifested by the group as a whole. This feature has been successfully maintained, partially through the conduct of the men and otherwise by the enaction of those regulations necessary for stability.

As a counter-balance between these regulating influences Lewis Field has its supervisor, Mr. Tom Boyle. Mr. Boyle is a senior in Fort Hays State and is majoring in social science.

The majority of the boys at Lewis Field are entirely on their own. By means of state and national financial appropriations the college is enabled to furnish them part time employment. Outside of his regular work each man at Lewis Field gives three hours of labor a week toward what is called "free hours." This time is utilized by various jobs such as janitor work at the barracks and setting tables and drying dishes at the college cafeteria where they receive their meals at the rate of 37½ cents a day.

The opportunity for higher education thus benefits those who have had few such opportunities, and who make the most of them.

BEEHIVES

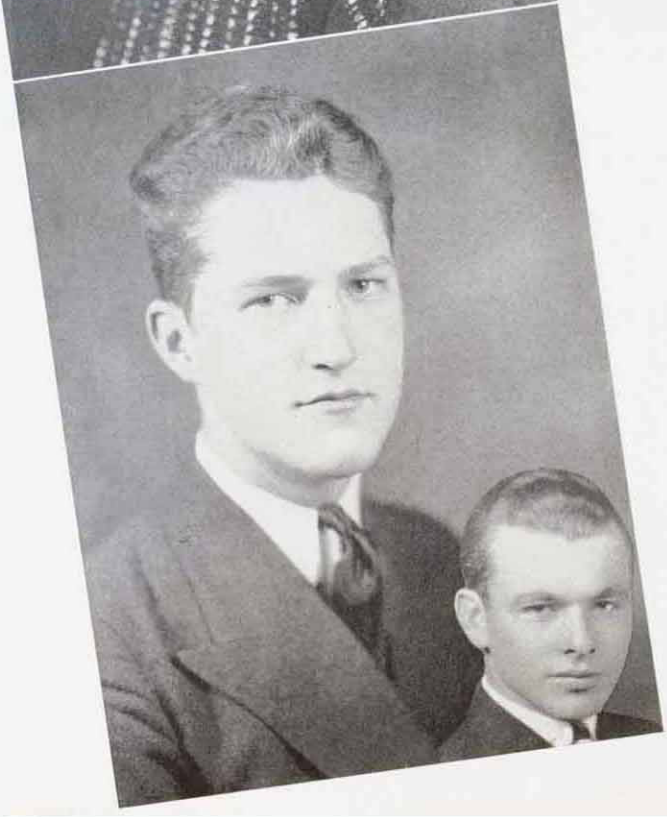

"They're as busy as bees" at two of the busiest buildings on the campus. There are so many things going on all the time that it is only right that one is called the Industrial Building (opposite page). The pottery department has grown in its production of clay modelings. Art students bring many art exhibits and learn the beauty of the life about us. Home economics students excel in clothing and foods. Industrial arts has a well equipped workshop and a growing number of applicants for its courses. The importance and knowledge of science may be studied and found in Science Hall (below). Here are modernly equipped chemistry, botany, biology, physics, and astronomy laboratories. (Note the observatory.)

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

¶ The Student Council, under the sponsorship of Dean F. B. Lee, is the supreme student governing body. The Student Council declares all special holidays (there were two such occasions this year, one for the football championship, and the other for the basketball co-championship), makes house rules, sponsors school elections, regulates social activities, and helps provide for the students' enjoyment of the college.

Management of the student assemblies is left almost entirely up to the assembly officers, who are elected each semester.

Greek government is put into the hands of the Pan-Hellenic Council and the Intra-fraternal Council. The purpose of these groups is to promote cooperation and friendship among the Greek organizations, as well as to establish the rules and regulations deemed necessary for their management.

Graduate Club

The Graduate Club is an organization of graduate students for group discussions and for social activities. Spring semester officers include H. H. Reinking, president; Mary Williams, vice-president; Marjorie Raish, secretary-treasurer. Dr. F. B. Streeter, chairman of the Graduate Council, Dr. Myrta E. McGinnis, faculty sponsor, and other members of the Graduate Council have taken an active interest in the club.

Seventh Cavalry

Seventh Cavalry is an honorary fraternity for men, and is named for General Custer's cavalry stationed here in early days. Members are elected primarily for leadership, secondarily for scholarship. Officers of the club for the fall semester were: Maurice Waeldin, president; Burtis Taylor, vice-president; and Eugene Niewald, secretary-treasurer. Spring semester officers are: Karl Carson, president; other officers remain the same. Mrs. Thelma Hruza is faculty sponsor.

Wherein the Seniors Have Worked Very Diligently

¶ "Work while you work and play while you play" is evidently the theme that has been carried out by a large portion of the class of 1937 at Fort Hays, with work seemingly predominating. Seniors have worked hard in extracurricular activities, they have studied diligently to get an education, and lastly, their life at Fort Hays has been a training for life (or a trade if you wish). Some have worked on projects that have been provided by the school, others have obtained employment elsewhere.

They have been employed at nearly every type of work from news correspondent to farm hand, bookkeeper to dishwasher, chemist to gardener. Many of their duties have been unpleasant and simple, but they have been expert and reliable helpers. Two of the college's most efficient aides were an attendant in the cafeteria and a campus lawn worker.

Heads of departments have been capably assisted by seniors who were more than anxious to work their way as stenographers and clerks — grading papers, mimeographing tests and writing letters. Those who have worked in the greenhouse and in landscaping have made it possible for Fort Hays to boast a beautiful campus.

Such responsible jobs as work in the power plant, overseer of campus labor, heads of sports departments such as intramurals and track, and assistant director of the college band have been assigned to members of the senior class.

Many of the industrious seniors who have not been employed on the campus have found work uptown in drug stores, grocery stores, chemistry laboratories, and in other business places. Often these students have been trusted with full responsibility, and employers have not found that trust misplaced.

Here are but a few of the industrious class of 1937, who have found profitable employment: John Hadley, Eugene Holm, Clyde Billings, Eugene Niewald, Gerald Ford, Henriette Giebler and Randall Gallion

Director of Education

The School of Education

¶ The particular function of education in a state college is to serve the educational requirements of students on the campus and community educational needs. This function is four-fold in nature, consisting of professional preparation, laboratory school experience, graduate training, and the off-campus service. These phases of work taken together properly constitute a "school of education."

The first phase covers the prescribed professional courses in education which serve to prepare one for active participation in some area of educational service. Laboratory school experience provides training school experience in actual classroom stituations. Graduate work gives opportunity for concentration toward a definite goal of achievement. This concentration may be in educational administration or educational theory or in a strictly academic subject field. The off-campus service deals with community relationships and educational service in whatever form or way it may be rendered.

The professional work of the department gives the college student training in professional courses which best fit him for teaching, whether at the elementary, secondary or administrative level. This preparation is obtained by pursuing courses logically outlined for the student. The time required for this preparation is two to four years, depending upon the type of certificate desired or academic degree taken.

Should the student desire a graduate degree he pursues work for an additional year in graduate courses which yield a minimum of thirty semester hours of credit. These hours are made up of a major and a minor or a major and two minors of chosen courses arranged in proper order as outlined by the head of the department of education.

The teacher training work of the department of education at Fort Hays was reorganized in the summer of 1935 to take effect the following September in providing a campus training school of grades one to six and a kindergarten. Affiliation with the public school system of the city of Hays for grades seven to twelve inclusive was also perfected. Each grade in the campus school was provided with a special supervisor. Special subjects such as music, art and physical education are supervised in ways best suited to the disposal of the regular college faculty. The affiliated division with the city school system is made up of twelve "master teachers" in the junior-senior high school. The student teaching in both schools is under the direction and supervision of the director of teacher training of the college faculty. The number of college students who did practice teaching during the past year in the campus school was 134, in the junior high school 25, and in the senior high school 66.

In academic hours, five hours is required in practice teaching during the regular semester while four hours satisfies the requirement if taken in a summer session of the college.

The work at the graduate level for a master's degree represents the concentration of a student's effort toward a definite goal of accomplishment. In this work the student selects educational administration, educational theory or an academic subject-matter field at the high school or college level as his major. In addition to the major there is also a minor or minors which are cognate with the major.

The minor is presumed to strengthen the student's mastery of his particular field of professional training. A candidate for the master's degree is also required to make a contribution to the field of knowledge in the research involved in the development of his thesis. The thesis is carried forward under the direction of the head of the department of education. In special instances, however, a candidate may be assigned to some other faculty member for thesis supervision.

The off-campus service is very largely cooperative with the extension department of the college. The particular nature of this service depends upon the nature of community needs and community demands for educational service. This may be extension classes, parent-teacher speakers, institute speakers, institute instruction or educational survey work.

¶ Pi Gamma Mu is an honorary fraternity for students who have made outstanding achievements in the field of social science. The membership is restricted to students of at least junior standing who have compiled a record of thirty or more hours of social science with a grade of B or above. The fraternity was organized on this campus in 1931 and since then has made constant advancement. The officers of the fraternity are: president, Alan Rankin; vice-president, Marvin Hubert; secretary, Clara Snyder.

The International Relations Club was organized in May, 1936. Sponsored by Dr. Welty, it has become a permanent fixture in the school. The club studies problems of both national and international character. A library consisting of books and pamphlets are furnished the club by the Carnegie Peace Endowment. Membership in the club is limited to those having eight hours of history. Meetings are held twice a month. The officers of the club are: president, Elwood Bartlett; vice-president, James Wright; secretary, Margaret Pankaskie.

Delta Epsilon was organized on the Fort Hays campus in 1931. It is an honorary fraternity for the purpose of recognizing outstanding achievements in the field of science. The membership is open to the faculty of the science department and to students who have given promise of creative work in the field of science. Each year the retiring president presents a paper before the club; this year it was given by Dr. H. B. Reed. The fraternity's other officers are: vice-president, Dr. W. G. Warnock; secretary, Mr. S. V. Dalton.

¶ The College Forensics Fraternity, the Pi Kappa Delta, is a large organization, containing 150 chapters, one of which is the Fort Hays State Nu Chapter. The officers this year are: president, John Willcoxon; vice-president, Faye Garten; secretary and treasurer, Marguerite Taylor. The debate team competed in four tournaments, placing high in three. At Winfield, the girls' team composed of Marguerite Taylor and Faye Garten placed second. At Hutchinson, the entire team placed second. In the Pi Kappa Delta Provincial meet, held here, a tournament composed of twelve of the leading College teams in the state, the men's team of John Willcoxon and Ivan Birrer won four consecutive debates before losing one.

Officers of the Quill Club, the Eolh Rune of the American College Quill Club, honorary organization for writers, for this year are: Rita Jacobs, chancellor; Mrs. Thelma Hruza, vice chancellor; Shirley Baird, scribe; Tillie (Young) Jennison, keeper of the parchment.

Parliamentary Law Club, under the supervision of Mr. Brooks, is a society for the purpose of educating the student body in the proper methods of conducting public assemblies, legislative bodies and other public gatherings. The group meets each week and follows an outline of parliamentary practice in the conduct of the meetings. Officers: Tom Boyle, president; Leonard Matoush, vice-president; Margie Holland, vice-president.

from ART to AGRICULTURE

¶ The organizations and departments represented on this page are of a varied nature . . . from art to agriculture. Each group is noted for interesting and educational services it has rendered. It has been found that students show greater interest in their school and student affairs when they are given the opportunity of becoming a member of the group in which they are interested.

The Home Economics department is represented by three different groups, namely, the clothing, and foods classes, and the Home Economics Club. Margaret Haggart is the faculty advisor. The two outstanding activities of this organization are the annual trip to the state convention and the annual Christmas party, which is centered around "olde English customs." Stella Schlegel heads this group again this year. Membership is by election.

Are you artistically inclined? If so, the art department with its variety of projects should have something to interest you. The popularity of this department has increased immensely the past year. The prospects are even brighter for the future. The pottery department is open to all who are interested. Many splendid novelty articles, including book ends, vases, and ash trays have been designed and molded by formerly inexperienced art students. This department is also responsible for the fine art exhibits that were held during the past school year.

Left to right, down through the half-tone: Snip, snip, and a stitch in time . . . mechanical drawing . . . Verna is molding pottery . . . finding the way to his stomach . . . prospective homemakers, the Home Economics Club . . . Dorothy's conception of South Sea island magic . . . Home Economics Club's annual "olde English" Christmas party . . . concentration behind the bars . . . Herbie, is this a marathon? . . . greenhouse scene; the connoisseur is Red Rohrs . . . college farm scene . . . the library force talks it over . . . a huddle in the Extension Department.

The Engineers Club is composed of students who are preparing themselves for the engineering profession, and others who are interested in the topics considered by the club. The group meets weekly. Topics of all phases of engineering are discussed and studied. The annual engineers' banquet has become a campus institution. First semester officers: Floyd Foley, president; Vivian Meckel, vice president; Maurice Albertson, secretary-treasurer. Officers for the second semester: Vivian Meckel, president; Dan Wagoner, vice president; John Miller, secretary-treasurer.

"Art is a symbol of the changing continuity of things." The Art Club has existed on the campus for many years. The past season the group undertook an interesting project, each member designing and completing a piece of pottery during the semester. The pieces were offered for sale during the holiday season. Interest shown by students on the campus made the club feel that its project was a successful one. Club officers: Mabel Robertson, president; Lois Meyer, vice president; Viola Ames, secretary-treasurer.

The Professional Club promotes the interests of those who are taking professional and pre-professional training. Membership is limited to those enrolled for pre-medic, pre-law, or other professional work. The group meets weekly in the YMCA room of the library. Members carry on investigations and research, and make reports before the club. Spring semester officers: Lloyd Willison, president; Thomas Freeman, vice president; Donald Thorpe and Tom Smith, publicity.

YWCA

YMCA

The YWCA and YMCA clubs have worked together in carrying out their purpose to "Unite all who desire to strengthen the spiritual, mental, and physical life; to promote growth in Christian character and fellowship; to train its members for Christian service, and to lead them to devote their lives to Jesus Christ in whatever field they believe they can best accomplish the most for the extension of the kingdom of God."

They have carried out an extensive program during the year just passed. A few of the highlights have been: A carnival mixer, a Christmas party for the needy children of Hays, and religious week at which several members of the faculty spoke. The membership of these clubs has made a substantial gain this year.

The YW under the sponsorship of Miss Maude Gorham and the YM, sponsored by Dr. C. F. Wiest, Dr. A. W. Barton and Mr. S. V. Dalton, have made much progress helping students on the campus become religious minded, and in bringing the teachings and ideals of Jesus Christ closer to them.

Club officers: YW — Stella Schlegel, president; Lois Meyer, vice president; Cliffie Mae Enfield, secretary, and Mabel Robertson, treasurer. YM — Brooks Rickard, president; Forrest Taylor, vice president; Wilbur De Young, secretary, and Thomas Gruver, treasurer.

YWCA — Inez Yeager, Mary Hardy, Viola Schoen, Cliffie Mae Enfield, Dorothy Wilson, Isabel Dodrill, Rena Eveleigh, Helen Anderson.

Versa Farmer, Margaret Bartholomew, Marguerite Taylor, Mabel Robertson, Helen Shaw, Maxine Robertson, Margaret Fleagle.

Ethel Liss, Delilah Unruh, Leona Bray, Lois Meyer, Wilma Corzine, Charlotte Strickert.

Verna Halthus, Reva Wharton, Muriel Koontz, Stella Schlegel, Merle Humphries, Elda Le Roy, Frances Larson.

YMCA — Ralph Eikelberger, Thomas Smith, Burtis Taylor, Rufus Jamison, David Branson, Ivan Zeller, John King, Wilbur De Young, Byron Davis.

"They Also Serve"

Seldom getting their pictures into print or their names into Reveille type are several employes at Fort Hays who are as much a part of the school as its faculty and student body. From the president's secretary down to the hardest working janitor, these faithful people give loyal service to Fort Hays and help to make it a more pleasant place to live: Eva Hedges, Margaret McJimsey, Cora Bibens, Mabel McCoy, Phyllis Shumaker, Mrs. Nita Landrum, Mrs. Ada Fitchie, Isabelle Priddy, Fred J. Wagner, William H. Earley, Alfred Havemann, J. E. Gruver, M. C. Cordell, Rufus Evans, D. B. Riegel, C. A. Witt. Other employes have been mentioned elsewhere in the yearbook.

¶ Fort Hays has two residence dormitories for girls—Custer Hall, just south of the Coliseum which is reached by a lovely new footbridge across Big Creek, and Wesley Hall, on west Seventh street. Girls living in these buildings are organized groups and have their social functions just as the sororities do.

Wesley Hall, a Methodist institution, houses about fifty girls. Mrs. H. P. Wharton is the house matron. Mary Popp, Hoxie, is president of the Wesley girls, Mabel Robertson is secretary-treasurer, Hazel Rabourn acts as social superintendent, and Catherine Harrell reports the social events for the State College Leader and the Hays daily.

Residents of Wesley Hall are: Helen Anderson, Lucille Anderson, Eunice Andregg, Christina Bowen, Betty Brown, Margaret Brown, Esther Carter, Lorene Collins, Jeanne Cooper, Ruthe Cross, Verna Deissroth, Isabel Dodrill, Drusilla Ebnother, Rena Eveleigh, Versa Farmer, JoyBeth Fink, Mary K. Flood, Martha Griswould, Kathryn Harrell, Bernice Hemphill, Clara Hemphill, Lois Hedge, Merle Humphrey, Nadine Johnson, Mildred King, Mary Kingston, Nadine Kintigh, Muriel Koontz, Catherine Lubbers, Elda LeRoy, Ernestine Mellor, Joan Miller, Ellen Nielson, Mary Popp, Hazel Rabourn, Mabel Robertson, Maxine Robertson, Wanda Mae Scott, Helen Shaw, Grace Smith, Winifred Spaulding, Delilah Unruh, Eva Thompson, Dorothy Wilson, Billie Wirshing, Elaine Wise, Fern Wright, Inez Yeager, Evelyn Zahradnik.

Custer Hall accommodates nearly ninety girls and is shepherded by Mother Mac, Mrs. Ethel McKenna to be more dignified. Custer has an interesting historical background. Granted by the legislature in 1921, the total cost included furnishings, and was approximately $102,000. The grounds are well kept, beautifully landscaped, with trees and shrubbery and tennis courts.

Custer Hall officers are: Wilma Corzine, president; Ruth Frisbie, vice president; Carrie Seuser, secretary; Lenora Coats, treasurer; Velma Mackey, social chairman; Verna Halthus, historian; Margie Holland, reporter. These girls are residents of Custer Hall:

Martha Appel, Mildred Baldwin, Verna Baldwin, Isabel Barker, Beatrice Batman, Constance Bogart, Leona Bray, Margaret Brentnall, Valara Brooks, May Brownlee, Isabel Brownlee, Lorraine Carper, Lenora Coats, Lucile Chisum, Birdie Mae Christensen, Wilma Corzine, Elizabeth Downs, Opal Emmons, Margie Erwin, Marguerite Fesler, Pauline Fleming, Ruth Frisbie, Faye Garten, Mildred George, Nelda Gfeller, Norma Gfeller, Miriam Goellert, Harriet Green, Mary Hardy, Dorothy Henderson, Margaret Henderson, Isabel Herold, Margaret Herold, Leah Hoag, Margie Holland, Verna Halthus, Geraldine Hopley, Dorothy Hunsicker, Dorothea Jennison, Katherine Jennison, Marguerite Jennison.

Behind the Front Page

¶ Leader day is here. It is Thursday afternoon and the Leader, Fort Hays newspaper, has been circulated among the 800 students and mailed to its 800 subscribers. The press has ceased its rumbling and the last copy of this week's edition has found its way to the reader. Anxious eyes scan the news articles and special notices. Scattered comment can be heard, some in praise, some in surprise and some in disappointment. One more issue is complete.

The printshop is responsible for the printing of each issue of the Leader, but the content of those pages comes through the work and cooperation of the college Leader staff. It is through the efforts of these young journalists that the reader is furnished the facts and incidents of campus life.

It is no easy task to edit and publish a newspaper for 800 students, satisfactory to each one's tastes and each one's desires. The first and second year journalism classes under the instruction of Mrs. Dorothy Sampson contribute many news articles and feature stories.

Each department of the Leader is responsible for contributions. Joy McKie and Tillie (Young) Jennison edit the social events. Ralph Geist and his associates report sports and intramurals. Naomi Griffith, along with other writers, turns out various feature articles. Brooks Rickard keeps the Leader on a paying basis. Marjorie Wallerstedt, editor, wields her little red pencil and takes charge of all news copy, editing and revising each contribution before it goes back to the printshop. Wayne Miller, associate editor, shares in the work of writing headlines. The entire staff is behind the pages of the campus newspaper.

To all of you who have been asking "Who did this?" referring to the art work of the 1937 Reveille, this answer: All hand lettering, drawings, caricatures and cartoons and layouts were done by the art department of the Mid-Continent Engraving Company, under the capable direction of Mr. Glenn Golton, Mid-Co's art director.

POURING IT ON

¶ The staff of the 1937 Reveille not only has attempted to give you a graphic record of the campus of today, but also in the typography of today. The editors wanted the book to be entertaining and full of human interest.

However, to give you this attempt at such a book, work was "poured on" every member of the staff, and several helpful persons who are not in the pictures at the right. Particularly, Mrs. Dorothy Sampson's news laboratory class aided in preparation of copy. In the halftone:

THE PRINTED WORD

¶ The college press has become an essential part of Fort Hays, and presents a graphic record of campus activities. Under the supervision of Mr. Walter Wallerstedt, this department has an important place in student life. In 1921 Mr. Wallerstedt came to the college as supervisor of printing, and since that time has built up the department until now it is a well-equipped, smooth-running plant.

Above are pictured several of the publications and pieces of material printed by "Stockholm" and his force of student printers. The Aerend, college quarterly, contains historical accounts, short stories and feature articles written by the college faculty and students.

The Leader, campus weekly, is read by 1,600 persons. Out of this number, some 800 are mailed to outside subscribers, former students and people who are interested in the activities of the school. Through the Leader, students with journalistic aspirations are afforded an outlet for their literary ability. Valuable knowledge and experience is gained for the young journalists.

Color work is an outstanding part of the work of the shop. Calendars, display cards and pamphlets done in color have been distributed to various parts of the country, reaching such distant points as France, Hawaii, China and Mexico. College bulletins about the school and its activities are printed periodically. Athletic schedules and postcard advertisements are included in the work.

At the lower left and right is pictured the bulletin board, which stands at the north wall of the Coliseum. It might well be called the "Fort Hays Daily News" in that notices, summons, advertisements and various other kinds of information are posted.

DE LUXE ENTERTAINMENT

¶ From the opening of the fall semester until the last day of the spring stanza these Fort Hays State entertainers have given and will present musical programs at various times throughout Western Kansas. The fine performances of this group have given much favorable publicity to the school and the music department. Their programs consist of vocal solos by Karl Carson and Guwendola Johnson, who also gives readings; classical numbers by the string quartet; violin selections by Bonnie Zimmerman; trumpet solos by Vivian Meckel, and outstanding piano selections by Mr. Richard Niessink and Max Hughes.

There's Music in the Air!

¶ The Men's and Women's Glee Clubs at Fort Hays have enjoyed programs of varied activity throughout the year. They gave a combined program at the music festival May 6, last spring, and the a capella choir sang at the commencement and baccalaureate exercises.

The officers of the Men's Glee Club are: Karl Carson, president; Leland Flora, vice-president; Clinton Meyer, secretary and treasurer. The glee club sang at the teachers meeting in November and gave their home concert March 30. The club made two trips. One was to Hoxie, Menlo, Selden, Jennings, Norcatur, Lenora, and Natoma. The other trip was to Arnold, Utica, Dighton, Leoti, Lakin, Holcomb, Ingalls, and Garden City. At Garden City the club was the feature of the musical festival. An informal spring party was given April 10.

The Women's Glee Club officers are: Mildred King, president; Hollis Van Doren, vice-president; Winnie Adams, secretary and treasurer. This club made trips to Plainville and Luray on March 24 and to Claflin and Hoisington on April 28. The home concert was held March 8. The club has an enrollment of sixty-five and plans to have more members next year. New second-semester members are: Lorraine Carper, Helen Cordell, Pauline Dralle, Anna Lou Galloway, Ruth Hopkins, Arlene Jennings, Elda Le Roy, Eunice Saleen, Winnie Wiley, Marjorie Erwin, Mildred Swartzkopf, and Mary Zeller.

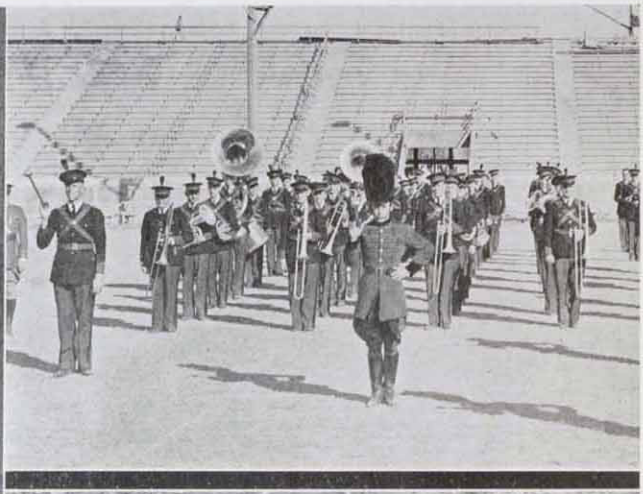

Members of the Men's Quartette are: Leland Flora, first tenor; George Zeigler, second tenor; Karl Carson, baritone; Clinton Meyer, bass. The fine personalities and excellently blending voices of this group have been responsible for its popularity in fulfilling numerous engagements.

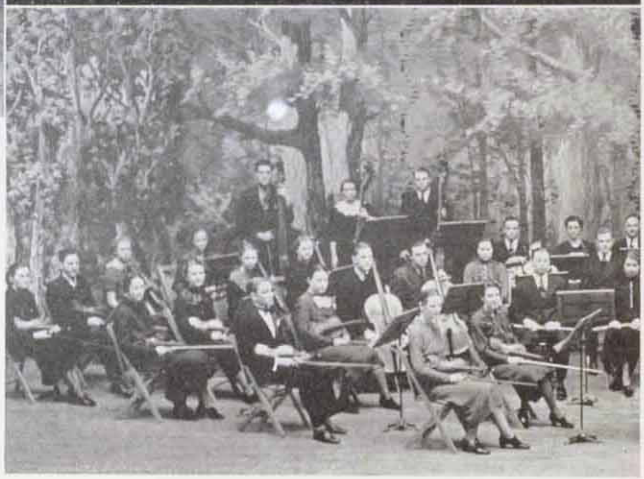

MR. HOBART DAVIS

The Women's Quartette members: Mildred King, first soprano; Ruby Ellen Malmberg, second soprano; Lou Verne Williams, first alto; Winnie Adams, second alto. Becky York sang first soprano the second semester. This quartette has made several public appearances and has always pleased.

MISS LUCILLE FELTEN

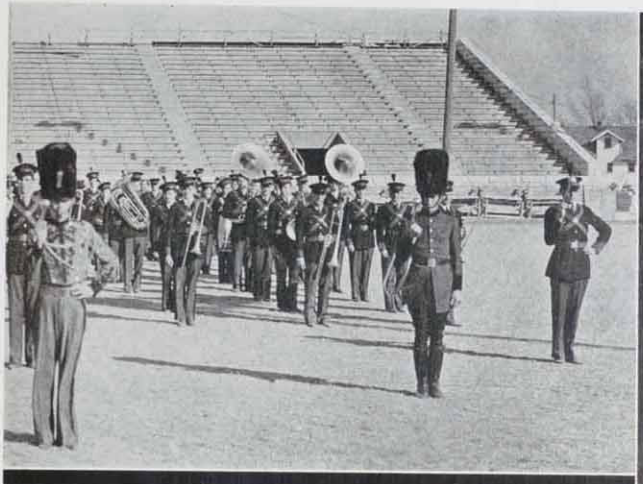

Mr. Carl Malmberg, instructor of the orchestra for the last two years, was graduated from Fort Hays in 1927. During the following eight years he taught music in the Russell and Hutchinson high schools. He received his masters degree from Columbia University, New York in 1935. At Columbia he was assistant director of the all-New York high school orchestra and a member of the faculty of the teachers college.

ORCHESTRA

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Carl Malmberg, has appeared in assembly programs at Fort Hays throughout the year and played for baccalaureate services during commencement. In the last two years the orchestra membership has increased from 35 to 60. This year the group assisted in the music festival with the high school massed orchestras, with the chorus concert, and with the dances presented by the physical education department of Fort Hays. Mr. Malmberg has as a goal an orchestra of 100 members and plans a symphony orchestra at Hays to develop an appreciation for orchestra music in Western Kansas. Orchestra members: Adams, Albertson, Butler, Brown, Batman, Brungardt, Burgan, Boal, Blake, Bahl, E. Calvert, S. Calvert, Casad, Claar, Dawes, A. Daniels, B. Daniels, Doak, DeForest, Evans, Edmonds, Z. Felten, L. Felten, Fields, Grossardt, Goodnough, George, Gantner, Griffith, Hower, Henderson, Marcia Hahn, M. Hahn, Helman, Hanson, King, Loflin, Lowe, Meckel, McGrath, Malmberg, Nash, Pankaskie, A. Reed, Raffetto, M. Reed, Rankin, Romeiser, Scheer, Sytsma, S. Schlegel, E. Schlegel, Unruh, Van Doren, Wilson, Wells, Mary Wooster, Wallace, Weigel, Wise, M. Wooster, Williams, Wirshing, Wessel, Zimmerman.

Mr. Virgil Edmonds, directing the band at Fort Hays for his second year, has built it from forty members to 135. He has organized a fine military band of eighty-eight who have marched and drilled at football games and on other occasions. The band, through the director's increased activity, has been awarded new uniforms. Mr. Edmonds has developed a new and noteworthy feature in a fine set of drum majors. Under his direction, the band has played numerous out-of-town concerts and has promoted considerable interest in Fort Hays.

BAND

The band this year played at all home basketball and football games, made a booster trip for the Hays chamber of commerce, accompanied the football team to Manhattan, gave a spring concert. Members: Abell, Adams, Albertson, Alcott, Anderson, Bahl, Baldwin, Barbo, Barker, Bartlett, Bartley, Bayha, Been, B. Berndt, A. Berndt, Bice, B. Blake, C. Blake, Boal, Bondy, Breckenridge, Brooks, Brownlee, Bueker, L. Burford, W. Burford, Burgan, Butler, S. Calvert, E. Calvert, Canaday, Carr, Casad, Cochran, Churchill, Claar, Cook, Coxon, Daniels, Davis, DeForest, Deissroth, Dirks, Doak, Edmonds, Ehrlich, Fesler, A. Finch, F. Finch, Fink, Fletcher, Gantner, Garten, Gilbert, Griffith, Grossardt, Hahn, Hamilton, Honderick, Harper, Hoke, Hopley, Harrington, Harshbarger, Hartman, Henderson, I. Herold, M. Herold, Hill, Howell, Huddleston, Hower, J. King, R. King, Kirkman, Lane, Lauver, Lecuyer, Leech, Loflin, Lowe, Luce, Mason, Meckel, Miller, Matthews, McGrath, Miller, Newton, Nossaman, O'Brien, Opdycke, Page, Pankaskie, Pearson, Price, Raffetto, Reel, Reeves, Rogg, Romeiser, Roth, Reed, Saylor, E. Schlegel, Mrs. E. Schlegel, S. Schlegel, Schoenfeldt, Schreiber, Schamber, Shedivetz, P. Smith, W. Smith, Smitherman, Start, Stephenson, Strickert, Stutzman, Unruh, Van Devanter, Wallerstedt, Wessel, Wagoner, Wickizer, Wilson, Wirshing, Wolten, Yost, Yurchak, Ziegler, Zinszer.

MORE ENTERTAINERS

¶ These musically inclined students of Fort Hays appear before audiences of students and townspeople to offer them a fine class of entertainment. Students who are members of the string quartet are all graduates of Hays High School and all three have their homes in Hays. Alan Rankin has been a member of this group for four years. Miss Ruth Butler, at the piano, is one of the college's fine pianists. She has appeared in concerts and also gives lessons to aspiring young people. Mrs. Malmberg, Miss Hanson, Miss King and Miss Adams are outstanding vocalists.

PLAY and WORK

Note the toy tiger. . . But there are no toy tigers on the Fort Hays gridiron. . . Lucky Tom Mix. . . You wouldn't know it, but this is a Tri-Sig dance, with Katy and "Scoop" and Jean and Howard in the limelight. . . Three barefoot boys. . . Not the car that counts, but the getting there. . . Wesley girls are little girls at heart. . . These kiddies, Kent and Jody, are ready for the Theta "kid party."

As free as the wind, these leggy Fort Hays nymphs interpret the essential qualities of play—freedom, ease and enjoyment. Members of the Orchesus, interpretative dancing club, these girls are students of advanced techniques and group dancing. Printed through courtesy of the 1936 Reveille.

NO MAN'S LAND

Within the walls of these beautiful limestone buildings dwell the persons of two lovely housemothers, who keep watch over flocks of enchanting and troublesome coeds. Half a hundred women dwell in Wesley Hall (at the left) under the watchful eye of Mother Wharton, while more than eighty amazons are the particular charge of Mother McKenna in Custer Hall.

COLLEGE FUNCTIONS

Perhaps the most memorable days of all our college life have been centered around three buildings on our campus. In Sheridan Coliseum (lower right) we have seen many breath-taking basketball games, famous dancers, noted actors, pleasant assemblies, opera singers, and many classical artists perform. An essential part of our daily routine and several dinners that will leave pleasant memories have been housed in Cody Commons (lower left). The Woman's Building (right) is the home of campus society. Teas, varsities, formals, open houses, and lectures have been on the program of the Woman's Building schedule throughout the year.

LEWIS STADIUM

¶ A dream has almost come true. Next fall, about the middle of September, the eastern half of the new Lewis Stadium will be completed, replete with living quarters for forty-eight college men, a wall around the field, track for field events, glass-enclosed press box, and seats for 3,500. Below are shown various stages of construction and a drawing of the stadium as it will look when completed. Work has begun on the western half, and when completed will bring the seating capacity to 7,000.

Reveille Recognition

To these four goes a great deal of credit for guiding the C. I. C. championship into the den of the Tigers: Paul Waldorf, head coach; Bill Bearley, assistant coach; "Busch" Gross, backfield coach, and Marion McDonald, freshman coach. Paul Waldorf, in his first year here from McKendree College in Illinois, showed that he could "bring home the bacon" by guiding his Tigers and our Tigers through a perfect conference season with four victories and no losses. Outside their own stamping grounds the Tigers didn't fare so well, losing three and winning two for a season's record of six victories and three losses, a record which should please any first year coach and also please the Tiger fans. This was Bill Bearley's second year here and he has proven his services are indispensable to the Tigers.

MASTER TIGERS

¶ For the third straight year the Tigers have landed on top of the heap, twice as undisputed champions, and last year as co-champions of the C. I. C. gridiron season. This year they stalked as the class of the conference by striking down four and being struck down not once. Starting the season with the Kansas State Wildcats, the Waldorf Tigers lost a hard-fought game 13-0 and then turned around and walloped Chadron (Nebr.) 32 to 7. In their first conference engagement Hays met Southwestern 25-0. Then in an engagement with the co-favorite Wheatshockers the Tigers did the "shocking" 14 to 0. Resting from the conference struggle Hays went down to St. Benedict's 27-12. Next the Tigers bested Emporia 15 to 7 making it three wins and no losses in the conference. In the Homecoming game Hays won from the Haskell Indians 14-0. The next week the Bengals broke the Pittsburg jinx, downed the Gorillas for the first time in years, and cinched the Central Inter-collegiate Conference crown. In the last game the Tigers lost to Oklahoma Baptist 10-6. In conference play the Tigers scored 77 points to their opponents' 7. Thus a successful season.

James Rawson, back; Ralph McElroy, end; Bill Reissig, end; Chet Mitchell, tackle; Rudolph Skubal, tackle; Vern Waeldin, tackle; Tom Pivonka, tackle; Tom Mosier, end.

Gene Niewald, back; Keith Elder, back; Harold Darnell, guard; Ernest Staab, back; Garnold Schneider, guard; Howard Stehwein, center; Paul Stenger, back; Jay Boyer, end.

Bill Bearley, assistant coach; James Sampson, end; Lambert Ward, back; Harold Randall, guard; Paul Gooch, back; Herb Bender, back; Ward Reigel, back; Florian Holm, back; Hugo Pfortmiller, guard; Coach Paul Waldorf.

Ralph Huffman, back; Robert Fuller, back; Willard Elder, guard; Robert McKee, guard; Osman Hunley, back; Nolan Hester, center; Albert Neufeld, tackle; Claude Bice, back.

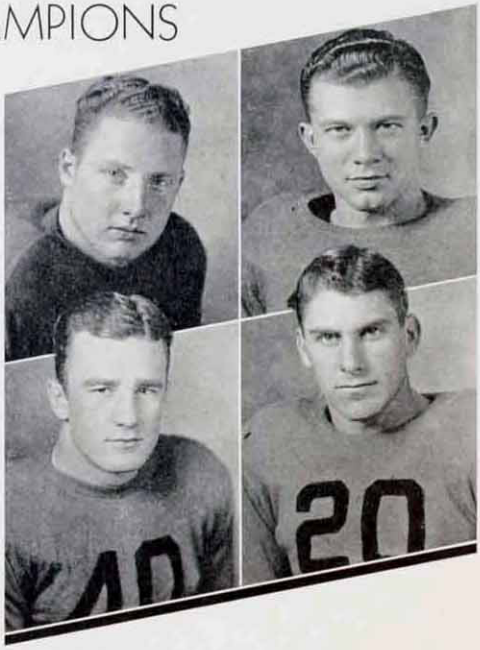

CONFERENCE CHAMPIONS

Ralph "Red" Huffman was co-captain and a four-year letterman center. Nothing can show "Red's" worth more than the honors bestowed upon him. He was named all-state center and captain of the all-conference eleven. Coaches rated him as the best center in Kansas for years.

Ward Reigel, sophomore and two-letter backfield ace, waited until this year to really develop but when he did he developed with a bang. He was named on the all-conference team and tied with Herb Bender for leading conference scorer with four touchdowns.

Eugene Niewald was co-captain and a four-letter back. This year he was quarterback and it was he who ran the team with such finesse. He didn't receive a great deal of praise because his main duties were blocking and calling plays, jobs which get little credit but upon which so much depends.

Bill Reissig, co-captain and four-letter man, played in the backfield two years and end for two years. He is probably best known because of his remarkable place kicking but his defense was just as good. His playing was rated good enough by the coaches to place him on the all-conference eleven.

HAROLD DARNELL, a two-year letterman, this year was changed to guard from backfield. His aggressive play added much to the success of the Tigers.

OSMUND HUNLEY, freshman backfield man, comes from Cullison. He is light but aggressive and will add much to the Hays attack the next three years.

HAROLD RANDALL, a three-year letterman from Jennings, played guard this year and before he was hurt during the middle of the season, played some great ball.

FLORIAN HOLM, senior from Hays and backfield man, is best noted for his kicking ability. Injuries have hampered him quite a bit.

VERNON WAELDON is a junior from Hoisington, and a tackle. Until he was hurt Vernon helped the team through a successful season. He made his first letter this year.

ERNEST STAAB, a freshman backfield man from Hays High, started several games and showed he will be a great help for three more years at Fort Hays.

TOM MOSIER is a sophomore from Hoxie. At the beginning of the season Tom played end but was later switched to guard to fill a gap. It is his second lettered year.

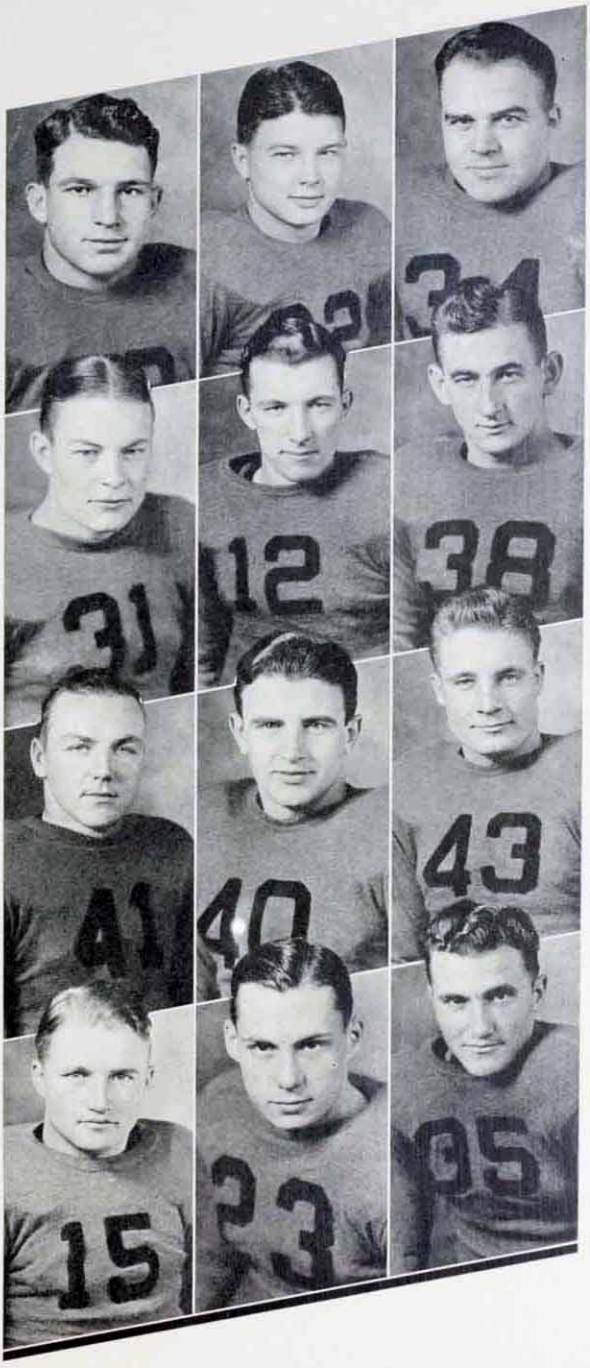

HOWARD STEHWEIN is a sophomore from Claflin. Being an understudy for "Red" Huffman is no fun but next year Stehwein will show his worth. He has earned two letters.

HUGO PFORTMILLER, a junior from Natoma, is a guard and rendered valuable service in a spot which looked weak at the start of the season but which turned out not to be. It is his first letter.

WILLARD ELDER is a freshman guard from Cedar. He played often this year, his first, and showed that he will be giving valuable service the next three years.

PAUL STENGER is a sophomore and a Hays product. This is his second year to letter as a backfield man. He gave all he had every minute and that all was quite enough.

JAY BOYER is a sophomore from Colby and made his first letter at end this year. He will be quite an asset for two more years.

CHAMPIONS

Chet Mitchell is a senior from Montezuma and the biggest man on the squad. He's a tackle and good one at that. He earned his second letter this year.

Garnold Schneider, junior from Natoma, earned his first letter this year playing in the line where he performed with credit to the squad.

Lambert Ward is a freshman backfield man from Johnson. His drive and dashing play shows that he'll be playing great ball for three more years.

James Rawson is a sophomore from Studley and a two-letter backfield man. His services have proved valuable for two years and will for the next two also.

James Sampson, a sophomore who lives in Hays, played his first year here. He plays end and what an end he plays! He'll have two more years to play the same swell brand.

Herb Bender, a junior from Waldo, plays fullback. His scoring proves his value. This year he tied Riegel for the conference leadership with four touchdowns. He is an all-conference fullback.

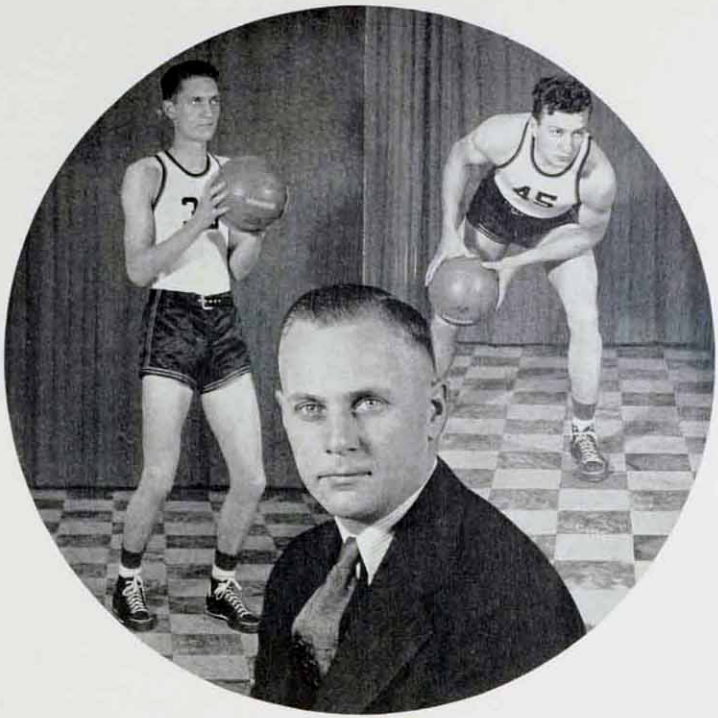

Ralph McElroy is a senior from Randall. He plays tackle, making his first letter this year. Before he was hurt he played several nice games for Hays.

Tom Pivonka, a junior from LaCrosse, played tackle this year and earned his first letter. His playing showed that he deserved the letter, playing driving game all the time.

Keith Elder, a sophomore from Cedar, became a regular this year and earned his second letter. His defensive game stood out especially, and he played a driving offensive game.

Rudolph Skubal earned his third letter this year at tackle. He earned a place on the all-conference eleven. "Skube" is a junior from Dresden.

BAKER COACH GROSS STAAB

TIGERS SHARE HOOP HONORS

¶ For the first time in the history of the school Fort Hays shot through to the basketball championship of the Central Intercollegiate Conference. Several years Fort Hays has had what appeared to be championship teams but not until this year were the Tigers able to capitalize on those appearances. Even though they tied for the conference championship with Pittsburg and Southwestern, this lessened but little the joy of the championship-starved Tiger cagers.

The Tigers started the season with several veterans at hand and from the start were picked by many as the team to watch. Under the captaincy of RICH STAAB and HERB BAKER and with these lettermen: STAAB, BAKER, LEAS, THURLOW, MITCHELL, MCGRATH, JAMISON, and HINKLE, Fort Hays opened the season by walloping Bethel 40-16. Then, for the first time in the history of the school, Hays played a Big Six team and laid them low, beating Kansas State 47-25. The next two Tiger stepping stones were Hastings (Nebr.) 37-28 and the strong Oklahoma City University five 39-28. During the Christmas vacation Hays had a hard time getting past McPherson 28-23.

Opening Central Conference play, Hays downed Emporia Teachers twice 43 to 33 and 52 to 32. In a game packed with thrills the Tigers bested the co-favorite Southwestern basketmen 37 to 36. Then Wichita fell 36 to 23 in a rough game. In the second game, the final gun did not sound quite soon enough for Staab's last basket against Wichita defeated the Munies 34 to 32.

Fort Hays Ties with Pittsburg and Southwestern for Leadership of the Central Conference

MITCHELL HINKLE STENGER

In a non-conference game the Tigers defeated the traveling University of Mexico team from Mexico City 44 to 29. Resuming conference play Hays defeated the strong Pittsburg team 39 to 28 but in the next game the Tigers met their first snag in Pittsburg 29 to 31. Strange as it seems, it was that superstitious number 13 that the Tigers were trying to hurdle when they stumbled, having won their first twelve games in a row.

Hays resumed its winning ways when the Tigers took the Emporia Teachers into camp 50 to 27. Traveling to Winfield for a crucial series the Bengals fared badly, losing to Southwestern 38 to 33 and 34 to 30.

Then Hays won over Wichita, assuring the Tigers at least a tie for the title and in the final game lost to Pittsburg 41 to 29, letting the Gorillas in for a tie for the title also. These two teams were joined at the top a week later by Southwestern bringing the hectic Central Conference basketball season to a close.

Now to introduce the personnel of the Tiger squad. Hays placed one of its tallest teams on the court with MITCHELL and STAAB standing 6 feet 4 inches, and BAKER, JOHNSON, JAMISON, THURLOW, MCGRATH, and HINKLE all over six feet. RICHARD STAAB, captain and a senior, boasts four letters. He has been conference high scorer for two years, counted an average of 13.22 points per game, and has been on all-conference and all-state teams for two years. HERB BAKER, captain and a senior, has two letters, and is a long-shooting, high-scoring forward.

RUFUS JAMISON, senior, made three letters at center, rendered valuable, dependable service. ART LEAS, junior, made three letters at forward, turned in a record of dependable defense and floor work. CHESTER MITCHELL, junior, won two letters at guard, boasted an all-conference rating this year, and used his height to good advantage for the Tigers.

RAY THURLOW, junior and winner of a third letter, was a dependable Bengal guard. ARNOLD MCGRATH helped out at all three positions in this, his junior year, and won his second letter. DELOYD MITCHELL, the runt of the team, gained his first letter this year by exceptional scoring and hustling performances.

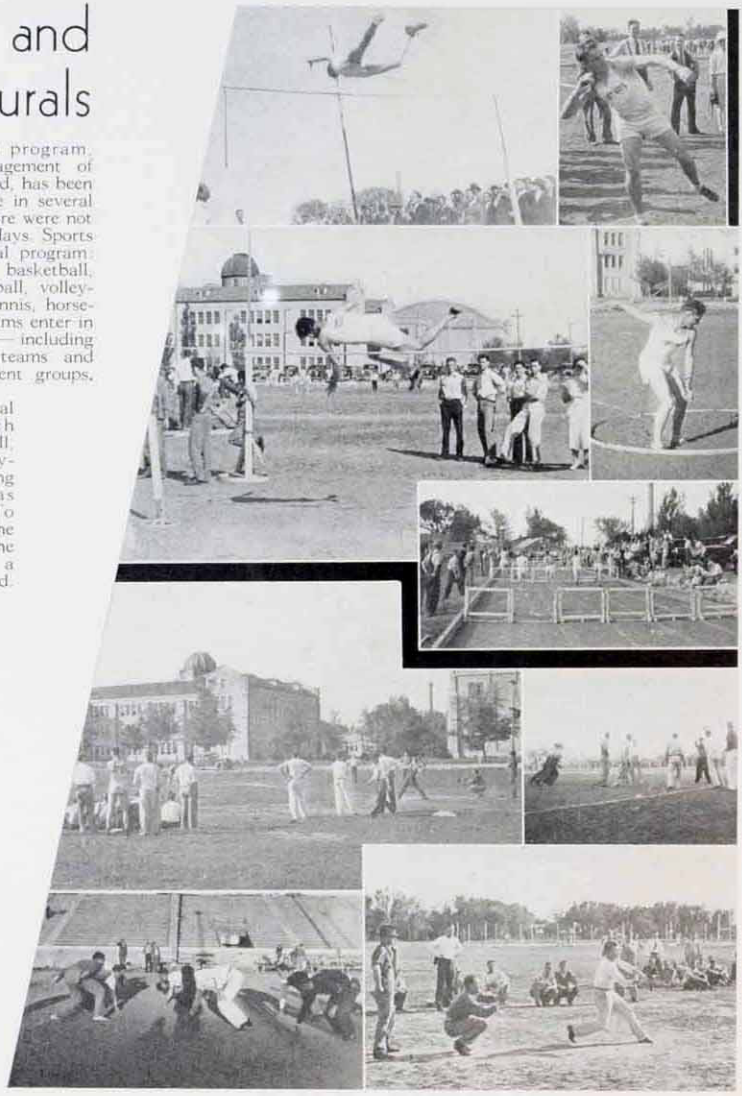

FLOYD MOTLEY, junior, earned his first letter this year at guard. ELMER JOHNSON, freshman, gained the respect of coaches as one of the best yearlings in the conference. RALPH HINKLE, junior, won his second letter this year, despite the mumps.

¶ Track under Coach "Busch" Gross this year seems to have a successful season as the Reveille goes to press. Fort Hays track teams are improving right along just as the football and basketball teams have for the past several years. Prospects are rosy with these lettermen returning: UPPENDAHL, captain and hurdler; TAYLOR, hurdles; PFORTMILLER, weight man; REIGEL, dashes; BURGAN, pole vault; STEVENS, broad jump; MOG, distances; FOLEY, hurdles; BURFORD, high jump; MICHAEL, middle distances; KINDSCHI, javelin; REISSIG, quarter mile; MITCHELL, high jump. BICE and SMALL are outstanding non-lettermen practicing with the team and with several promising freshmen the team should be a well-rounded aggregation. The schedule of meets this year: Wichita, here, April 2; Hastings Relays, Hastings, Nebr., April 10; Kansas Relays, Lawrence, April 17; College of Emporia, here, April 23; Kansas State, Manhattan, May 1; Emporia Teachers, there, May 8; Central Conference Meet, Emporia, May 13-14.

Track and Intramurals

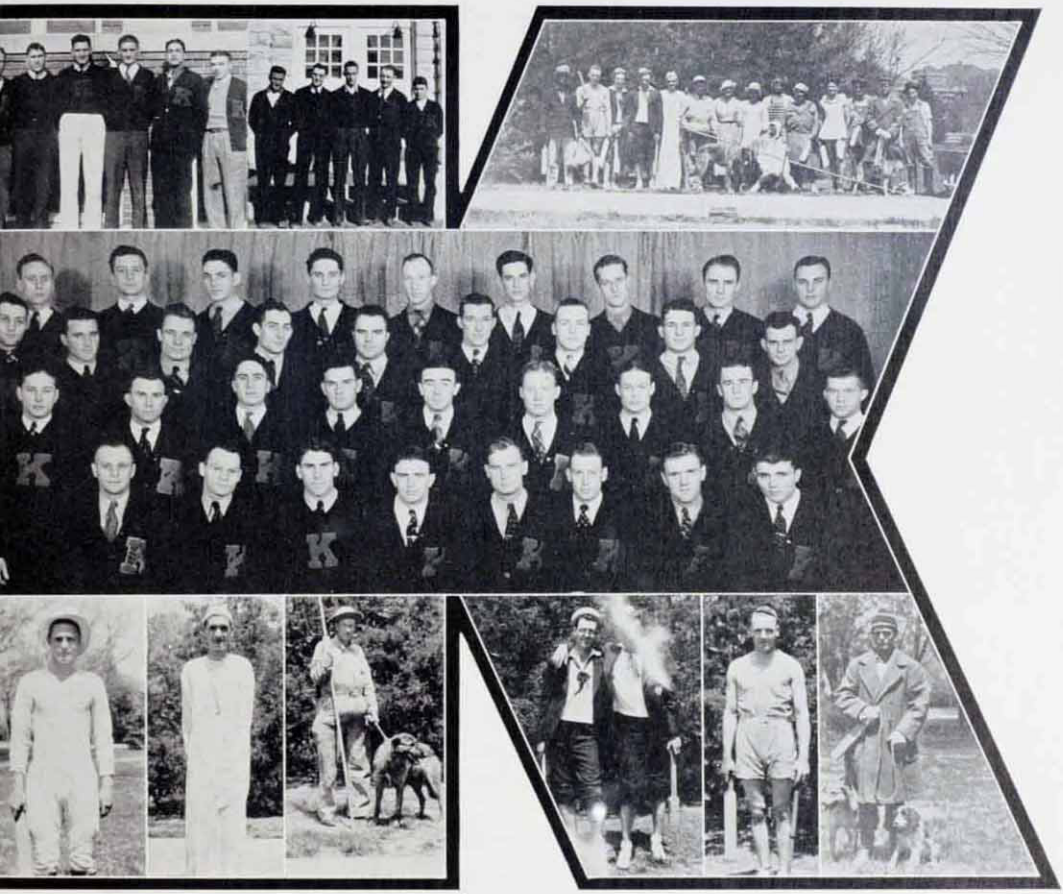

The intramural program, under the management of Marion McDonald, has been expanded to take in several sports which before were not played at Fort Hays. Sports on the intramural program: Touch football, basketball, swimming, handball, volleyball, softball, tennis, horseshoes. Several teams enter in intramural races — including four fraternity teams and several independent groups.

On the intramural program, touch football, basketball, handball, volleyball and swimming competition has been completed. To the team having the most points at the end of the year a cup will be awarded.

In the "K": Big Six . . . after dinner pose . . . 1936 pledges . . . cheerful cops . . . Alice in Wonderland. Big Six members: Huffman, Reissig, Mitchell, Baker, Sampson, Stephens.

K CLUB

¶ To become members of the K Club, men at Fort Hays must have earned at least one letter in a major sport. K men wear their sweaters with the big K on the front, act as campus policemen, promote school spirit, and have an annual party.

As one of their activities, this organization of athletes does its bit to keep the status quo of the "campus beautiful." "Keep off the grass" is their command and woe to the unlucky student caught cutting across the lawn—it's the belt line for you, mister, regardless of who or what you are. And if you happen to be a girl, you will soon find the letters F. H. K. S. C. painted on your pretty face.

Another K Club duty is to see that freshmen at Fort Hays wear their little black and gold caps—if and when they should. Forgetful freshmen are familiar with the belt line and paint brush.

However, freshmen are not always required to wear their caps. This spring, since April 1 to be exact, arrogant frosh have been very indifferent to the practice. They have reason to be conceited, for they pulled the sophomores into Big Creek on April Fool's day in the annual tug-of-war between the two classes. Had the sophomores won, the freshmen would have been required to wear their caps for the rest of the year.

Before an old tradition was blown to bits, the K men had still another duty. In the good old days no dates were allowed at athletic contests. But the student body rose in unanimous and unholy protest this year, and now the "police" are content to keep Fort Hays Joes and Janes from straying over to the other side from the Hays cheering section.

K men always sit in a body in the Tiger cheering section. In the meantime they are making plans for a bang-up spring party.

Better than many a show is the campus spectacle of K Club pledges during the group's own private "hell week." Samples of the "get-up" required for initiation into the club are pictured above. The Reveille would not dare print pictures of the egg fight which closes the K Club hell week.

Bill Reissig is K Club president, and Ward Reigel is the secretary.

In the upper left-hand corner, the Big Six represents outstanding K Club athletes.

These girls don't look like ducks but that's what they claim to be (lower left, this page). The Ducks out of water are: Carrie Seuser (secretary), Margaret Stocking, Bernice Hemphill (president), Ernestine Mellor, Dorothea Jennison, Ruthe Cross (treasurer), Lois Hedge (social chairman), Frances Schlyer, Margaret Reed, and Nadine Johnson. To become a full fledged duck, certain swimming qualifications must be filled. Until these requirements are met, any pledge of this organization must be a mere duckling. The Ducks and Ducklings have had three parties this year. Two of them were for girls only, but the other one, being for their gentlemen friends, was really ducky, they say. This is the third year for these mixed parties and they intend to make it an annual event.

High School Play Day

High School Play Day (lower right, this page), which is sponsored by the W. A. A., was held on April 17, and was under the general supervision of Anna Marie Brown. The theme carried through the activities was that of Navy Day. Each girl from one school was placed on a different team, thus eliminating interschool competition. The different group games played were hit-pin baseball, tenniquoit, swimming, volley ball, and soccer. Health and posture tests were given by Dr. Morris, head of the physical education department, and an award was presented to the winner. A noon day dinner for all of the high school girls and the members of W. A. A. was given at Cody Commons. At four o'clock in the afternoon all the girls assembled in the arena. Each high school presented a stunt and the members of the winning teams and the health and posture winners were given their respective awards.

If you are interested in a good fight, just come over to the women's intramural games (upper right, next page). The tournaments so far completed are hit-pin baseball, basketball, volley ball, pingpong and softball. Wesley Hall walked off with the hit-pin victory and the Custer Hall girls were the basketball champions. The tennis tournament is now under way. Jeraldine Nedrow is the intramural head.

The Woman's Athletic Association

The varied physical activities of women on the campus are centralized in the Woman's Athletic Association (upper right, this page). Membership in this organization is a result of points given for participation in one or more activities in the department of physical education. Points are earned for hiking, recreational swimming, intramural sports, skating, tennis, dancing, and other activities. K letters and sweaters are awarded for obtaining the required number of points. Members of W. A. A. in the picture below are: Sibyl McKinley, Mary Anna Moore, Ruth Cox, Beth Atkins, Anne Rogge, Lucile Parsons; Lorraine Hollenbeck, Doris Brown, Elsie Mae Reed, Margaret Stocking; Elsie Sire, Josephine Sire, Catherine Masters, Linnie Doris Kirkman, Mary Farquharson; Alma Berndt, Avis Alexander, Catherine Bellman, Dorothy Stehley (president), Jeraldine Nedrow (intramural head), Ann Reed, Margie Holland. Other members who do not appear in the picture are: Christina Brassfield, Lucille Chism, Ruthe Cross (treasurer), Mary Flood, Anna Lou Galloway, Blanche Garlow, Bonnie Lee Hall, Katherine Harrell, Lois Hedge, Bernice Hemphill, Clara Hemphill, Grace Hildebrand, Nadine Johnson, Helen Keller, Alice Lavery, Marjory McEwen, Ernestine Mellor, Helen Pottorff, Louise Price, Frances Reed, Maxine Robertson, Winifred Spalding, Darlienne Thompson, Fern Wright, Elva Wyley, Laura Brenner, and Pauline Scherer (vice president).

Enter Badminton, Miss Smith

Badminton has recently been added to the list of games for sports classes. Upper left, next page, is a picture of a gym class in the process of a game.

And this person with the Cupid's bow is Miss Alma Smith. We are wondering just who she is aiming at. Miss Smith is replacing Miss Geneva Millett, instructor, who is on leave of absence. Miss Smith has made many friends in the short time she has been here, and has stirred much enthusiasm into the physical activities among the girls on this campus.

And what do you think of this? A dancing class in action! Even with a few stiff muscles, the girls insist that it is great fun and it looks it too. This group is the Orchesus Club. They have been seen in programs on the campus several times during the past year. Between halves of the Wichita basketball game they entertained with three tap numbers. Soon after that they danced at the benefit program for the flood relief which was sponsored by Ellis county.

Give Dance Recital

During the music festival on Wednesday evening, May 7, the Orchesus, national, and character, and interpretive dancing classes, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Barbour, presented a dance recital. The program was divided into two sections. The first was Schubertiana. It consisted of classic Grecian dances, with the dancers dressed all in white. The second part was a scene in a toy shop. The dancers, in the role of different toys performed for the supposed customers. The most outstanding dance of the evening was the dance of "Harlequin and Coumbine." To the college orchestra, under the direction of Carl Malmberg, this department extends its appreciation for its hearty cooperation in the presentation of this program.

Below, middle, are the life savers. The white hats are simply an added attraction. Life saving tests were given in February. Those earning badges this year are: Nadine Johnson, senior; Margaret Reed, senior; Carrie Seuser, senior; Lois Hedge, senior; Ruthe Cross, senior; and Beth Atkins, junior. Those having badges which were earned previously are: Henriette Giebler, senior; Martha Markwell, junior; and Helen Wells, junior. The girls in the picture are: Cross, Hedge, Atkins, Seuser, Reed, Johnson, and Giebler.

The Hockey Team

On November 13 and 14, the hockey team, accompanied by Miss Geneva Millett, sponsor, and Dorothy Stehley, delegate, attended the state convention of the W. A. A. in Wichita. The Welch hockey team was the feature of the convention and provided entertainment for the group on the hockey field, in meetings, and at dinners.

The members of the Fort Hays hockey team are: Jeraldine Nedrow, Blanche Garlow, Anna Marie Brown, Catherine Bellman, Margaret Stocking, Mary Farquharson; Catherine Masters, Bernice Hemphill, Beth Atkins, Margaret Reed, Joy McKie, Jeanne Reinking, Linnie Doris Kirkman, Anna Lou Galloway.

At Christmas time the W. A. A. had an informal dinner dance at Cody Commons, and if what they say is true, the mistletoes were passed around freely. Early in the second semester, just after the arrival of Miss Smith, the W. A. A. gave another party in the woman's building. On April 10, the W. A. A. and the K club sponsored a carnival in the coliseum. The arena was turned into a dance floor. Other campus organizations had booths located in different parts of the Coliseum.

Representatives attending the state health and physical education convention in Manhattan on March 25 and 26 were: Dr. Morris, Elizabeth Barbour, Alma Smith, Mary Farquharson, and Bernice Hemphill.

Diversion and Work

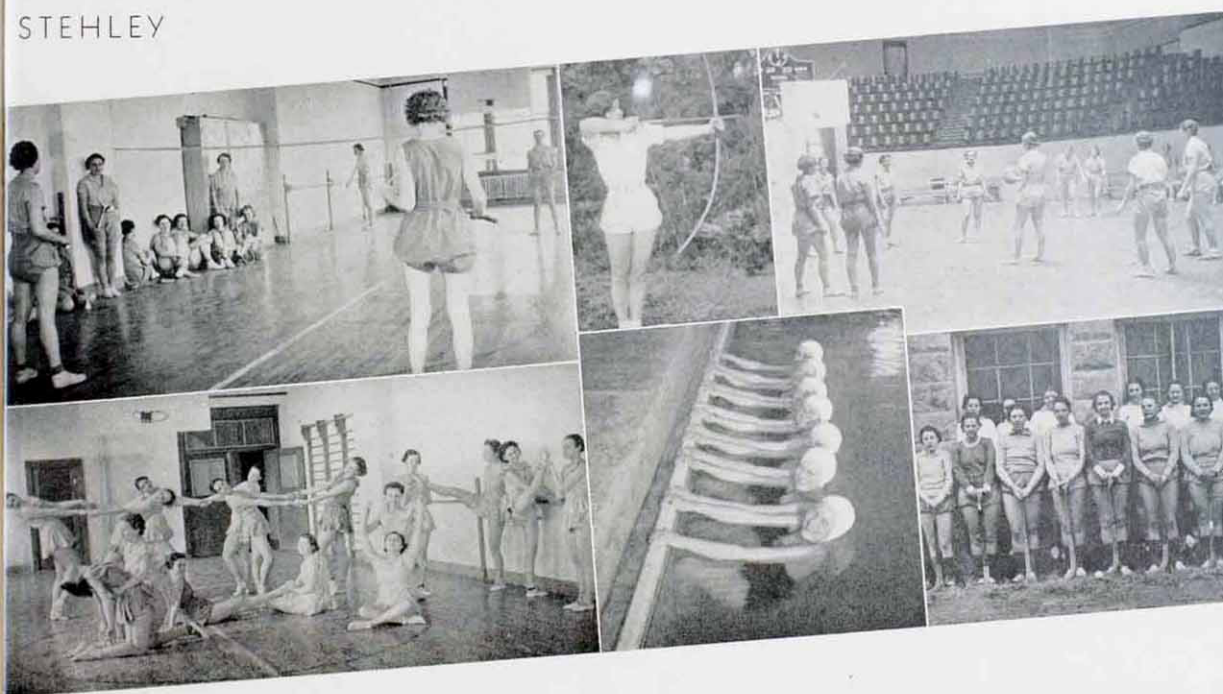

Recreational sports for men and women both have been held this spring one night a week. Games which were played were paddle tennis, pingpong, badminton, tenniquoits, volleyball, and swimming.

So you see that excitement reigns in the girls' physical education department. Enthusiasm is on the increase. The W. A. A. room has been transformed into a recreation center. A new radio has been added to the equipment and furnishes entertainment for the girls during their leisure time. Girls just can't be girls without being busy all the time. Activity has a real meaning at Fort Hays.

Another school year ends but Dr. Morris says that recreational sports will go on forever so we'll see you next fall.

¶ Three years ago only a few of the students about Hays knew anything about the Little Theatre. At that time it was organizing and those people who had long felt the need of such an organization were endeavoring to establish a workable program for the group. Last year the Little Theatre attained some notice but it was still in the formative stage. At the beginning of the third year this group appeared as a serious, well organized body, with a definite program. They worked through the year and proved to the college and to Western Kansas that they were able to present superior productions.

Mr. Orvis Grout, director of the Little Theatre, felt that before any student should appear in a play he should have training in poise and voice control. Can you imagine one of our campus heroes dancing daintily across the stage, or one of the lovely coeds in a fencing bout? Even the self-admitted Romeos were more than a little nervous when called upon to do a love scene for the group. The nervousness, however, that he may have felt was soon dispelled by the group's matter-of-fact attitude. This attitude as well as fencing and dancing aided the students in preparation for the stage.

There were more than sixty students enrolled for the Little Theatre in both the fall and spring semesters. During the first semester the student enrolls in the Little Theatre he is given only minor roles in plays; thereafter, he may appear as one of the major characters.

Acting is not the only aim of the Little Theatre. Every member is required to know the fundamentals of stage make-up, stage and costume design; and, if the person desires, he may place emphasis on any one of these related fields instead of upon acting.

About fifteen plays were included in this year's repertoire. These plays were presented in a number of towns over Western Kansas. The stage sets for these plays were designed by Mr. Grout, aided by members of the Little Theatre.

"Noah," a fantasy, was the first play presented by the Little Theatre on the campus this year. The stage setting was one of the highlights of the play. "Three Cornered Moon," three-act comedy, was in popular demand again this year as it was last. Other plays in the repertoire were "Trial by Jury," chosen as the junior class play; "You and I," which was also given last year. "Bill of Divorcement," a problem play was the Little Theatre's offering to the student body in the spring semester.

The development of the Little Theatre has been nothing short of miraculous in the last three years. Praise must be given to Mr. Grout who has labored tirelessly to see this group become an important part of the life of Fort Hays students. Next year it is the hope of the Little Theatre to try even more ambitious plays. It has proven its worth and now holds its rightful place on the campus.

"Go you Hays Tigers!" Those words were screamed, shouted and yelled loud enough to help the Tigers win the Central Intercollegiate Conference gridiron title and share the cage crown. Who created all this pep? The answer to this question is on this page. The Tigers and Tigerettes promoted pep during the games on the campus and in pep assemblies. The band which we so proudly boast was always on hand to help in making pep for our successful Tigers. The student body did a splendid job in cooperating and the results were the best pep for the best team. Oh, no, let's don't forget Trixie, the Tiger mascot. Trixie's attendance record was perfect, even taking in the pep parades, and everything.

Tigerettes . . . Tigers . . . just about did . . . pep from the president on down . . . band on pep parade . . . more pep . . . before the Pittsburg victory . . . Trixie, the college mascot.

Miss Heidman took time out from a sewing class just to accommodate the photographer. . . Our Paul on the verge of going places to do probably big things. . . Another Paul, but much sweeter. . . Jubilant Dr. Chappell; yes, I would say jubilant after seeing his new wife. . . The "dedicatee" on the way to class. . . Miss Proffit on a cloudy day. . . How did you get in here twice? . . . Jacobini's best French student. . . This made Mr. Albertson just 35 seconds later to lunch. . . "Eat lots of this and do lots of that," say Nurses Henry and Pearce. . . "I'll take this one and you take that one," says Dr. Barton to Dr. Wooster. . . Miss Maud McMindes, maker of school teachers. . . Paleontologist Sternberg patiently chisels out another fossil. . . At Mantrap Lake in Minnesota, Mrs. Wells snaps hubby at his favorite sport. Mrs. Cruise in the other end of the boat. Did you say Mantrap? . . . Impressive Mrs. Sampson with an impressive background. . . Our math Professor. . . the cause for more boys wanting to take interpretative dancing. . . Miss Barbour goes to town. . . Miss Wiles completes the Library force. . . "The Potter" Strange. . . Psychologically speaking, this is Dr. Kelly. . . Mrs. Golden rates the second time. . . Gaynelle Davis and Picken's back door. . . Dr. McGinnis of the English department. . . Miss Snyder, if you please. . . "Farmer" Smutz, superintendent of the college farm.

Play Houses Are Essential — to furnish children fruit for the imagination. The Fox Strand is essential to the grown-up students at Fort Hays, furnishing them with diversion from exacting routines, and opportunity for social life. The Strand is constantly on the lookout for good programs for your entertainment, and will continue to submit an up-to-date list of shows for your approval.

FORT HAYS

Humor-Advertising Supplement to the 1937 REVEILLE

Remember the holidays we enjoyed after those great Tiger victories? And assembly programs at Mac's? Ah, me . . . your Fort Hays playboys—lines that you would like to believe but don't dare, dancing at Ellis, spring plaids, bravado, and a mean hand of bridge(?)—yea, plenty of likeable lochinvars at Fort Hays State . . . But the girls can play too, have been places, seen things, and know all the answers except in examinations. . . There is foul play on the campus! From the entrance exams to the tug-o'-war the poor freshman is fleeced unmercifully; he is sold assembly tickets, made to wear a silly cap, and must keep off the grass. But don't cry over him, honey, for he grows up to do a wee bit of a jolly good fleecing himself. . . Speaking of the tug-o'-war, it was a lucky seven this spring for the frosh. After seven passes (into Big creek) they cashed in this year of our love 1937. . . Chief horse play of the year concerned two Sig Taus and a real horse. . . Not yet have the Fort Hays youngsters put away childish things. They are still making use of frat pins, divans (especially at the Delta house), rumble seats and park benches to aid them in pitching woo. . . Plus mention of those super-elegant formals, dinners, and parties, and we are ready to lead you into the remaining pages of wonderland—and advertising!

Right now, Micaela, let us inform you that you had better like this Playdaze supplement—or else! It was made possible by advertisers herein who hold a warm regard for you—especially if you are that way.

Playdaze would like to suggest to textbook publishers that they add more blank flyleaf pages and wider margins to accommodate "o-fillers" and "doodlers."

Among the unsolved problems in the minds of the editors is a moonlight saving time that would give Jack and Jill more play nights.

By the way, John, address all complaints to Derrill Pratt, editor; associated with him in this dizzy Playdaze venture are Tom Brown, Tillie (Young) Jennison, Ruth Atwood, Bonnie Lee Hall and Harry Jay Older (he would).

How much does it cost? My dear girl, your Reveille would buy four new V-8's and a sliphorn, but your two bucks helped a lot.

Though the Spanish war is being fought on the other side of the world, the call to arms here at Fort Hays and the dormitory skirmishes are the proximate cause of many grade cards that were first lieutenants being retired to the rear ranks under a corporal's guard.

Our best beloved professor says that, after due and mature consideration, he has found his classes mixed in their metaphors, and that it's "Make hay while the sun shines," not "Be in haze while the sun shines." Whatever can the dear man mean, girls? Surely you do not have a hang-over of moonbeams and "I'll-be-true-forevers" from the night before.

It May Be Love!

Presenting several of our favorite campus romances, and some general free lancing as well. Boy meets girl, and how! Stoskopf and Hoagland, it seems to the casual onlooker, are inseparable. However, much to our regret, this seems to have developed into one of these affairs where both do general freelancing. . . Next we find what is generally considered one of the worst cases ever to set in on this campus: Galloway-Stover. Gayle isn't back this semester, and is Annie ever pining for him. . . Harrison and Helen are a little more calm in their expression of emotion, but it is a general consensus of opinion that it would be a waste of time to interfere with either side of the argument. . . Alcott and Schoenfeldt are advancing into dangerous territory, but seem to go at it with a will. Both of these romances, Hopley-Alcott and Brooks-Schoenfeldt, seem to be the real McCoy—pins and all that sort of thing. . . An unidentified couple, but much speculated upon. However, whoever, wherever it may be, it is an interesting plot in osculation. . . Joy McKie and Herb Baker are too backward in their public wooing to make good copy, but they do seem to be hitting it off rather nicely. . . Again we find Dick Alcott, and again, we hope, Geraldine Hopley, in a rather touching scene on the steps of that most fascinating place in Hays, the Custer Hall back porch. It is rumored that this picture was taken while Jerry had the mumps, but this report is said to be groundless. . . The Wallace-Atkins affair seemed, at the first of the year, to be one of the most promising of all those on the campus, but at the present time it seems to have hit a slump of the first water. Most of the rounders on the campus do not seem to mind having Janet on the loose, as there is no doubt in our minds but that she is nigh onto a dream. . . Tom and Naomi have developed into a home-loving type of late, Naomi wearing a diamond and Tom wearing a worried look for fear he might develop some competition. This is highly improbable, however, as we have never seen them apart long enough for any of the aforementioned to get in a lick. This affair truly seems to be love. . . Rita and Shep are one of the few couples on the campus who seem to go together for a long, long time without any outward and visible sigh of an inward and emotional battle. As long as we have seen them they are always of the same countenance, usually coking at Geyers. . . One of the more recent romances to be developed is the Toland-McGrath affair. At first it was rather like a child learning to walk, faltering, but finally gaining confidence and poise. It is now walking with the best of them. . . Here, friends, is our idea of a match: Winnie Adams and Lee Flora. This is a two-year-old romance that does not seem to grow cold with age. When Willcoxon was shown this he started spluttering something about "What will the Redhead think?" When Arlene saw it she also went into a flurry about someone named Sleepy something or other. Both mentioned something about libel, but as it was already in the plate, nothing could be done. . . We were informed, much to our surprise, that there were several other romances blossoming roundabouts that we had missed such as Cochran-Anderson, Row-McDonald, Murray-Beach, Thurlow-Nedrow, Rice-Helman-Deines, this last being a throat-cutting deal on the part of the gents involved. There are many others of course but as there are about eight hundred students here, approximately four hundred couples would have to be mentioned to take care of them all, so this will, we are afraid, have to suffice.

. . . Foul PLAY

The Reveille dares to tell the truth. From the time the poor freshman enrolls until as a senior he solemnly marches up for commencement, he is furtively on the lookout for foul play! . . . Dr. Morris and "Little Lulu," who could be 'most any poor student! . . . Those plaid trousers will be one solid color soon. . . Who's winning? It looks like Joe—no, maybe Jean. Anyway, they're keeping it in the fraternity. . . Foul play, and how! And Mike can really take it. . . Believe it or not, "Spud" Cardona was found in the library, but not to study! . . . Dr. Bice is really doing Rich Staab a lot of good, but "Stabby" says it's foul! . . . A few Fort Hays coeds sat up and took notice when this little Calvert girl made some of the college boys crack ice for her. . . Wow! What a belt! That's what Guy Barnes and several freshman boys thought. . . For once "Tiny" Helman is getting his face washed. . . There goes Wiest, the sissy, up the Custer Hall fire escape. . . Paleface Parsons with her war paint on. That's what she got for what we have now forgotten. . . Just another one of those "signs." This one is the first—and incidentally, we think it's poppa to all the rest of them. It belongs to little Willie Parker.

No Horse Play at the Classic Store But Rather a Service of DISTINCTION

• It is not at all unusual to find courteous and efficient service at any store in Hays, but the Classic offers, in addition, a thoughtful consideration of the customer's needs that goes far beyond the price tag. Not only the latest styles and modes of ready-made apparel—both for women and men—are carried in stock, but also our made-to-measure service for the hard-to-fit is exceptional. The Classic personnel is always informed on up-to-the-minute styles, color combinations, and what to wear and when.

Sob stuff—wontcha buy a paper, mister, I'm working my way through K-Club hell week. . . Tom Mosier, a sad case of athlete's foot. . . Gene's been workin' on the stadium, all the livelong day. . . Playing horse—"Cavalcade" Snell with Romeiser up. . . I think that I shall never see, a shovel restful as a tree. . . Too bad, Jim, but we warned you not to keep playing the ponies that way. . . Parker and Churchill, Incorporated. . . Hitching up—bet the McKie could never do it without Stover. . . Come, Betty, don't let all that hot air blow you off the fence; when in doubt, the answer is neigh, neigh!

Play Days . . .

Leap year week! Cochran opens the door but not for Anderson. . . Nice of Ruth to "lug" Clark's books—but then he just had a few. . . A group of Deltas entertain one boy at the fish pond—the sucker! . . . Looks like a packed house at the Strand (at the girls' expense). . . What, Camp Lewis boys playing five card bridge? . . . Girls-about-campus relax on a holiday. . . Likewise Start, Doc McCartney, and Doc Moreland enjoy a picnic lunch—maybe their wives were out of town. . . Kate Brenemen decides to go home for vacation and smiles sweetly at "her public" as she leaves. . . "No rest for the wicked" but Snell and Parks seem to be getting more than their share and on Sunday too.

Pike Days were of the highest spots in the college year. The winning of the C. I. C. championship in both football and basketball afforded two days on which to catch up on much needed rest, attend "bargain" shows, dance off a little shoe leather and spend the day with your one and only (if you were lucky—or unlucky—enough to have one). The last but by far most enjoyable pike day was the "legitimate" one which no one knew about in April. The day was spent in activities of various kinds.

Flash! Freshmen pull sophomores in Big Creek on a rather chilly day.

April Fool's past but nevertheless was that a snappy leader Margie got out. Some people would like to have taken the stories for fact but the date line spoiled it.

Play Things

Special play devices at Custer Hall include the fire escape. . . Agnes will be getting into gear in a minute; she and her gang are out for a between-class jaunt. The Ford helps. . . Mr. Edmonds probably won't call the baton a plaything, so we hesitate to elucidate. . . Oh, oh! another couple in the park! Perhaps we shouldn't disclose their identity, but the bench is an aid to this particular type of play. . . Flossie Belle and Rossie are a little ahead of themselves. They're English but the magazine did its best. . . Now, Tom, you don't really own a notebook. Ah, we can't believe it. Maybe it's the 1937 autograph special in competition with the Reveille. . . Where are you going now, Henriette? Who put the skids under you? . . . This little fellow looks quite lonely. For all we know he may be going to the dogs. Are you, Ruffles, honey? . . . What tune is it now, Bob? You look like you were really terraplaning along there. . . Seeing Naomi and Tom together is such a common sight that nothing more need be said.

Play Boys

¶ Harry Jay Older, Chanute's pride and joy, is in a class all by himself. With a major in campusology, he is outstanding in many fields. His line, when stimulated by a bit of mellow moonlight, is never failing; his aptitude for sleeping in classrooms is remarkable; and he is the originator of that well-known phrase, "Loan me a dime." At 'most any time he can be found anywhere from Chi to Frisco, and heaven only knows where he will be this summer.

Bob Helman is one of the most noted freshmen on the campus, and well he should be. Nothing, we are told, ever goes on that does not include him. He can be found anywhere from Norton to Larned or from Salina to the Colorado line almost any night of the week. He beats a mighty mean drum for Sleepy Heslett, cooks for three of his Phi Sig brothers, dates everyone he can, and has one of the best times of anyone on the campus. "Tiny" is playing his way through college.

At the bottom of the page is Steve, known to his parents and teachers as Ervin. Several years ago Stever migrated to the Fort Hays campus, a delightfully naive country lad. Loved by everybody for his simple and unassuming ways, he was taken under the wing of the Phi Mus and under their care received the training that made him a unanimous choice for this page. He is truly a playboy of the old school. As to the piano accompaniment, it is rumored that Steve plays one, but this is by no means certain. However, it is certain that he does play.

The Social Season

The highlights of the social events of the year can all be remembered within the four walls of the Woman's Building and the function room of the Hotel Lamer. There are many memorable occasions that are recalled by the photographs to the west. The Woman's Building had those four walls decorated for every season and all special holidays, and the Lamer function room was all dressed up for many hops and dinners.

At first we have a glimpse of the S. A. I. winter dinner dance given in the Lamer. Decorations were in the Christmas idea and were very clever indeed! But those S. A. I. gals are sorta clever any time, don't you think? Next are two men of grandish personalities, charm and everything that goes to make men like these two brothers of football fame, Paul and Lynn Waldorf, our own and Northwestern's own. They got together at the annual football banquet. We weren't fortunate enough to get a picture of Mrs. Waldorf but those of you who know her know that there is a real inspiration behind Paul's Tiger talks.

Those Theta "schooldaze" parties never will be forgotten. Many a coed and carl got his schooling there. They had scenery, short dresses, lights, and everything but plot. They didn't need that. The new addition certainly has added to the schedule and amount of entertaining that can be carried on at Cody Commons. If it were not for this additional wing think where these nice young men and women would be! The men's glee club can not only sing but also give swanky parties as well. This one is their winter formal in the Hotel Lamer's function room.

Again the good ol' Woman's Building is a shelter for another informal dancing party. George, our photographer, evidently slipped up on this party indeed—no one is looking—maybe they're bashful. Guess who. Our own Prof. Wells. If you didn't know him you would take him to be "Honest Abe" himself. Good make-up, Agnes Twenter! Prof. and Mrs. Wells went to a faculty party thus. They're at it again, the dancing, we mean. At least that's a good way to keep your figure trim and neat, girls.

Well, if it isn't our own king and queen of homecoming and a very vivid day in the social history of 1936. It was a cold day in November when these two very popular people rode out onto the gridiron to reign over the homecoming game. Ah! that was a memorable day—snow, football, stunt night, varsity and stuff. And these men both young had an opportunity not every football player gets and that is to be the audience when the speaker is such a brother as Paul Waldorf claims. All those people were listening intently when George's flash caused a momentary interruption.

And so, my children, the story of Cinderella and the Prince draws to a close. George was too lazy or gadding about when the Delta St. Patrick's pledge party, the Alpha mistletoe fling and several other perfectly swell doings were going on to get any more pictures of the social season that will draw to a close this spring with a bang! As a closing plot, it is rumored that John Willcoxon kissed our Dean Agnew under the mistletoe at the Alpha tromp.

THE DELTA'S 'UNCLE WALTER'

The Deltas were visited by Governor Huxman, "Uncle Walter" to them, last fall, and he gave the Delta gals a bid to the governor's ball, if he were elected governor. In the upper left-hand corner, you will see Uncle Walter surrounded by the girls, but apparently in conversation with Pauline, his niece. Annie and Jerry seem just as interested as Pauline, but Ruth is a trifle doubtful because she is scratching her head, see—over there behind Jerry. Maybe she was worried about the election, but she shouldn't have been because it turned out like the Deltas wanted it.

It was a cold, wintry day in January when the gals left for Topeka. Pauline appears to be quite anxious to start and she had every reason to be. The buses left promptly and everyone hurried to find a place to sit. In the foreground are Annie and Maurine. Maybe they'll turn around and wave to us.

The ball was really a grand affair and we hear some of the girls had some pretty swanky dates. Some of them even had dinner dates—um—um. That picture of "Uncle Walter" is as he appeared at the ball, only his smile was larger.

When the gals got back home, Gwen was delegated to write a thank-you note to Mr. Huxman, and in return received the letter which you see on the right-hand side of the page. It gave Gwen quite a thrill to receive the letter, and will remain a treasured possession of a grand event. The Reveille gives this page to the Deltas so they won't forget.

Hidden Faces

♦ How many of you have picked up a paper and hunted hidden faces? You had to turn the picture in all directions.

Your Face

Ever stand before a mirror lit by one light? By turning your head from side to side your dimples, nose, mouth, and hair showed up better by the way you turned your head. These are hidden faces! and the light brought them out by the way it struck your face.

That's My Business!

Every face must be lighted individually to bring out that character, which only a Markel portrait can give. Why do the best people and most of the beauty queens come to Markel for their Portraits? There's a reason: I find those hidden faces.

At McKee's College Shop John Collegiate and Jane Coed meet and snag a snack of Ice Cream . . . of Candies . . . and while munching their tasty snacks and drinking their thirst quenchers from the soda fountain they choose their school supplies . . . anything from a tablet to a tome.

C. W. McKEE
MACK'S COLLEGE SHOP

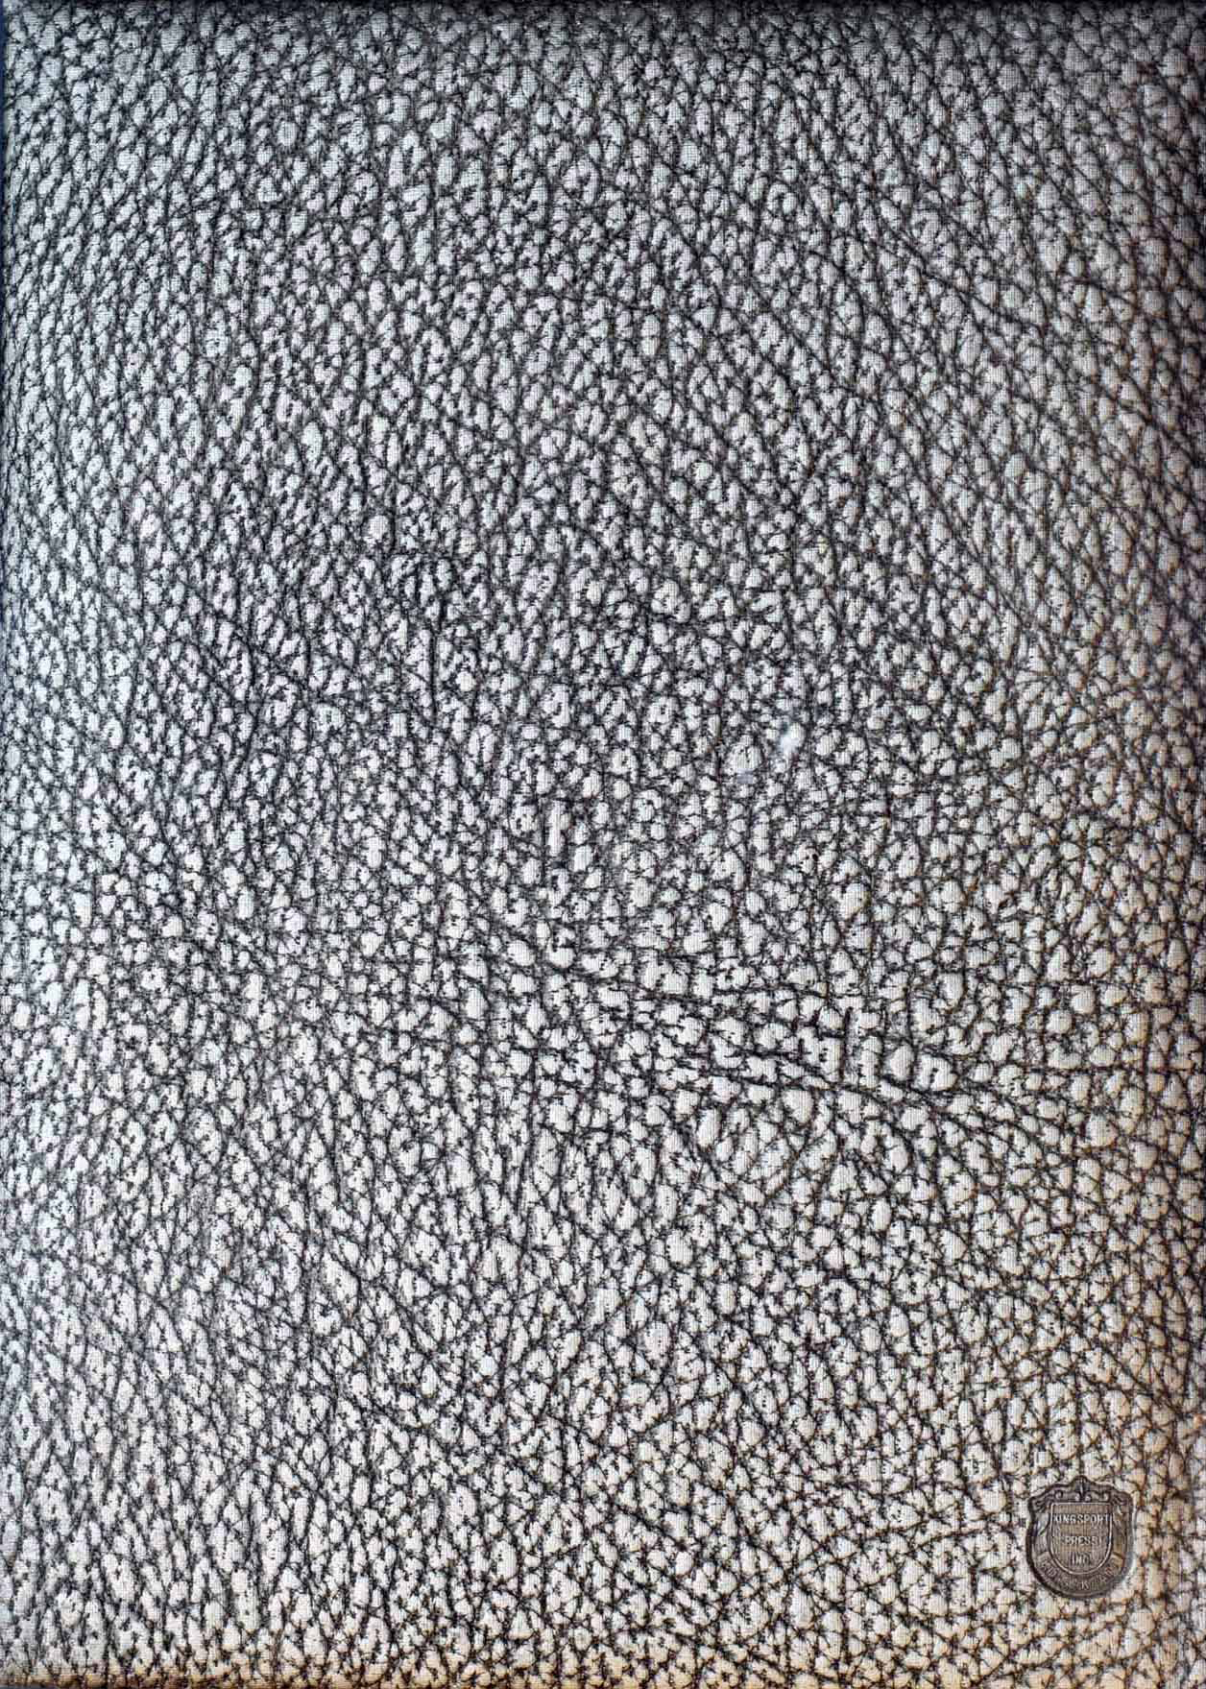

Words by Margaret Mitchell, music by Edna St. Vincent Millay, sung by a chorus of 800 Fort Hays students every spring. "It's the gypsy in me," they explain. And on looking 'round to say goodbye to its dear friends and ardent critics, the Reveille staff finds them —where? Gone with the wind. Tree-lined walks no longer echo the footsteps of coed and coeducator. Early summer breezes fan the quiet halls, but the wind of the open road lures their students. Wind flies past the streamlines of car and bus; it whistles in the wheels of a train, and stirs the hair of a blithe hitch-hiker. Lo! The student body has vanished like yesterday's dust storm. Soon we too will be gone with the wind!

My heart is warm with friends I make
And better friends I'll not be knowing,
Yet there isn't a train I wouldn't take
No matter where it's going.
